WEATHER

The weather forecast indicates cloudy skies, not so wet today, occasional showers expected and little change in temperature.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Continued cool temperatures with showers expected today and tonight is the indicated weather forecast. Today's high should be near 50, with the overnight low about 45 degrees. The five-day extended weather forecast calls for temperatures to average below normal, with the highs in the 50s and lows near 40 degrees. It will be cool over the weekend, warming somewhat about Monday. Sunrise today was at 7:15 a.m., sunset will be at 7:06 p.m. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report: high 62; low 43.

Kinzua Dam Report

Pool level 1318.62 feet yesterday afternoon (desired summer pool level 1328; maximum 1365). Outflow temperature 59 degrees, upper reservoir 63 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 4.35 feet yesterday.

WARREN COUNTY

Cobham Park rd. from the borough to the New York State line (connecting with Scandia rd.), Hatch Run rd., Hemlock rd. and a bridge to connect Route 59 were among the highway priorities approved for resurfacing and reconstruction at last night's meeting by the Warren County Planning Commission. Page One.

Warren residents were dampened yesterday by one of the worst downpours to soak the Warren area since July 4th of this year. More than three inches of rain fell in slightly more than a 24-hour period, with 2.52 inches of precipitation being recorded from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Page One.

THE NATION

President Johnson chose the occasion of an award of the highest U.S. military decoration, the Congressional Medal of Honor, to reply to his critics on the course of the war in Vietnam. Johnson, in an apparent reply to Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said he had always realized that there could be no "military solution" to the problems of Southeast Asia. At the same time, Johnson insisted that only military power could make a political solution possible.

Before his departure for Texas, President Johnson appointed five Negroes to the new nine-member District of Columbia city council. The appointments are expected to win quick approval in the Senate and make the nation's capital the first major city in the U.S. with a Negro majority on its governing body. The President flew from Washington to Texas, where he flew over the storm-ravaged Rio Grande valley and stopped to talk in Hurlingham with some of the victims of Hurricane Beulah.

Parliamentary wrangling continued to slow the business of government as House Republicans mounted a fight for a cutback in federal spending, effectively blocking a second Democratic attempt at action on a routine bill to temporarily finance most government operations.

THE WORLD

France charged that the United States was endangering world peace by its actions in Vietnam. Maurice Couve de Murville, the French foreign minister, declared in a speech before the UN General Assembly that the basic issue of peace was at stake "all the more so and how fearfully" when a major power was involved in the fighting.

The Israeli embassy has told the Johnson Administration that its resettlement of Israeli communities in occupied Arab territories on the west bank of the Jordan are only temporary, not permanent. Israeli spokesman said the move was aimed at security and military pacification of the area.

Secretary of Defense McNamara explained to defense chiefs of six North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations the reasoning behind the recent American decision to establish a thin missile defense system across North America.

SPORTS

Because the entry blank for the TMO Football Contest did not appear in yesterday's edition, the deadline for both mail and drop-off entries has been extended. Entries will be accepted by both methods until 8 o'clock tonight. The form appears on Page A6.

Warren Area High School's cross country team dropped its third meet of the season yesterday, losing to McDowell, 20-35. Dragon Captain Dave Cobb took first place, but five Trojan runners followed him across the line. Page A6.

Yesterday's scheduled middleweight championship bout between Nino Benvenuti and challenger Emile Griffith at Shea Stadium was postponed due to rain. The fight was rescheduled for tonight, or tomorrow afternoon if another postponement is necessary. Page A7.

Rain cooled the torrid American League pennant race as the California at Detroit game, the only scheduled contest, was washed out. Bookmakers have made first place Minnesota even-money favorites to capture the flag, with Detroit at 3-1 and both Boston and Chicago at 5-1. Page A7.

TYPICAL SCENE

A dripping weeping willow tree provides an appropriate foreground for this rain-drenched scene along the old Route 62 between Akeley and Russell. Yesterday's heavy rains covered roadways with a layer of water and covered some of the low-lying areas along the Conewango Creek. Surrounding areas were harder hit. See story below.

Creek is Up, Roads Awash, As Big Rain Hits Warren

One of the worst downpours to dampen Warren, since the July 4th rains, soaked area residents yesterday with nearly four inches of precipitation in slightly more than a 24-hour period. Jim Reier, superintendent of the Warren Parks Department, said last night a total of 2.52 inches of rain fell throughout the Warren area from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Reier noted at 7 a.m. yesterday there had been a total of .55 inches of rainfall recorded, bringing the total precipitation recorded for the period to over three inches. The river level at 10 p.m. yesterday was 7 feet 7 inches, according to Reier. At 7 a.m. yesterday the river level was 4.3 feet, Reier noted. This indicates a rise of 3.4 feet. The flood stage of the river is 14 feet.

Although Reier indicated no immediate concern over the rise in the Allegheny river there was some concern by area residents over the Conewango Creek, where the low lands were covered late last night. Al Ritchie, who operated the stream gauging system on the Conewango Creek, said last night the creek level had risen steadily throughout the day. Ritchie said at 10 p.m. the creek level was nearly seven feet. Flood stage for the creek is eight feet. Ritchie said he had received no reports of serious flooding along the creek at that time.

State police of the local substation indicated none of the area highways were impassable. State police here said some of the highways around the Akeley area were reported to have water covering the roads, but not seriously. Authorities at the Kinzua Dam last night reported at 8 o'clock that the dam was 10 feet below the desired summer pool level of 1328 (above sea level) with the water at the reservoir rising at approximately three inches per hour.

It was reported from the dam that about three inches of rain water had been encountered over the past 24 hours as of 10 o'clock last night. This indicates that it would take another 10 hours of the full drainage impact to reach the dam, leaving a very slight chance of flooding in the area within at least 24 hours.

U.S. 6 between Port Allegany and Roulette near the McKean-Potter county line was impassable.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Pittsburgh warned of a possible flood threat in the Pittsburgh area yesterday, but didn't know how severe it would be. No homes were threatened and no damage was reported in the upper reaches of the Allegheny River, but state police at Kane said, "if the rains keep up we're going to have a lot of problems."

Troopers said several highways were covered with as much as a foot of water, but said traffic was able to inch through. "We may have to close several more roads," officers said, but at midnight reported the matter under control.

In New York, water stretched from curb to curb in the Allegheny County towns of Friendship, Cuba and Richburg, flooding several sections and threatening to inundate business places. Firemen were put on standby.

Friendship School sent pupils home by bus shortly after the lunch hour. Many residents reported they were prepared to remove furniture and other possessions from their homes as water continued to rise.

During a six-hour span 1.90 inches of rain fell at Bradford, 1.73 inches at DuBois, .92 inches at Pittsburgh and 1.16 inches at Morgantown, W. Va.

The weather bureau said flash flooding was expected in the headwaters of the Allegheny, but that the main river was well

N.Y. State Has Rain Trouble Too

SALAMANCA, N.Y. (AP) — Steady rain yesterday sent creeks running over their banks in wide sections of southwestern New York, flooding cellars and inundating roads with up to five feet of water. State Police barricaded sections of Routes 17 and 219 north and east of Salamanca. Further west, troopers closed off Route 17 between Randolph and the Allegheny Reservoir.

Residents of Salamanca said the Allegheny River had reached to within five feet of flood stage early last night and that the waterway was rising at the rate of one foot an hour. Many side roads throughout the area also were closed off and city streets in Olean and Salamanca were flooded from curb to curb, making traffic movement difficult.

The village of Friendship, in neighboring Allegheny County, also was struck by flooding that left from six to seven feet of water in cellars of buildings in the business district and in some residential areas. Sandbags were placed around the Friendship Hotel in an effort to halt the flow of water. A park in the village of 2,100 was inundated when surging water from a nearby creek overflowed a 15-foot dike.

The Friendship Central School closed earlier in the day because of the rain, was reopened at night as a shelter for persons forced from their homes by the flooding. Eight families had been affected by early evening, officials said.

LBJ Declares Disaster Area

By GARY GARRESON
HARRISBURG, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson declared 24 South Texas counties a major disaster area yesterday after making a dramatic tour of the flood-and-hurricane devastated area by plane, helicopter and school bus.

Over-all damage in the stricken area has been estimated in excess of $1 billion. Johnson told a news conference here that damage to public facilities alone was more than $20 million.

County Planners Set Priorities For Roads Work

BY BETTY RICE

Highway priorities to be added to the Commonwealth's six-year program for 1973-74 were discussed last night by the Warren County Planning Commission.

Faced with a hearing in Meadville November 1 before the Pennsylvania Highway Commission, planners are considering a number of highway proposals.

Under the state's new formula Warren County may consider some $5 million to $5 and a half million in a projected highway program.

Approved as priorities one, two and three were Cobham Park rd. from the borough to the New York State line (connecting with Scandia rd.) for resurfacing and some reconstruction; Hatch Run rd.; Hemlock rd., and a bridge to connect with Route 59.

Planners also eyed the possibility of a four-lane highway from Youngsville to Titusville which would tie in with a similar highway to Titusville. A four-lane Route 6 from Corry and Columbus to Union City also gained favor.

Stressing coordinated efforts between counties, planning director Robert Peterson said he was to confer today with other planners in Franklin to further discuss priorities to be presented at the Nov. 1 hearing.

It was also noted that by 1973-74 other proposals could look more attractive than the ones programmed. The new listings are added to those already included in the county's immediate needs, such as those already approved: the Youngsville bypass; Warren bypass; rebuilding of Route 69; Route 62 as far as Russell; Route 666 in Sheffield and Route 957, Freehold and Columbus, these programmed through 1972.

Planners were told the county commissioners had approved purchase of nine directional signs, to be the same in Warren, McKean and Cattaraugus counties, pointing out Kinzua Dam, Allegheny Reservoir and the various recreation areas. There was some question as to wording in regard to locations.

The commission decided signs in Warren County should be worded according to suitability, but to include "Kinzua Dam" as often as possible. One member suggested Warren County should insist on equal billing. Additional study is to be made on the subject.

Subdivision plans were reviewed and approval granted as follows: Culbertson Bros., 12 lots adjacent to Route 6 in Mead township, preliminary approval, pending profile of roads and drainage plans; Skyline Estates, 15 lots next to Yankee Bush rd., preliminary approval final approval pending completion of road.

Seeley subdivision, final approval on lots one through seven already surveyed, preliminary approval lots eight through 17 located next to Quaker Hill rd. in Glade Township; Red Oak Hills, final approval, 10 lots in Elk township; Picnic Run, Mead township, approval, one lot on Griff Hill, off Route 6, Mead township; Hammond subdivision, two lots in Columbus township approved and Yutze subdivision, one lot in Sheffield township approved.

Representatives of the commission will meet Tuesday with members of Sugar Grove council to determine a date for a public hearing on that borough's inclusion in the county zoning ordinance. October 24 has been set as a tentative date for a public hearing on Southwest township's similar inclusion.

Peterson said the master plan was progressing and should be ready for distribution within two to three months. Several maps must be completed by the planning office. The balance of the text is at the printers, with a considerable number of pages ready for eventual binding.

Mrs. Margaret Messerly of the League of Women Voters attended the two-and-a-half-hour session as an observer.

'ROLL THE BARREL' AT THE AMERICAN LEGION

Erie Jaycees came to Warren yesterday for a "Roll the Barrel" program. They joined Warren Jaycees at the American Legion for an evening of comedy and discussion. "Roll the Barrel" programs are conducted by Jaycees throughout Pennsylvania. They are designed to help various area chapters get to know one another. Next Tuesday, Warren Jaycees will head for Meadville to put on their own "Barrel" program. Part of last night's event was a mock board meeting (above) put on by the Erie chapter. Among those taking part were: Edward Peck, Erie Jaycee president; Larry Massey, Frank Von Bockern; Ronald R. Selling; Gordon Naught; David Nelver; Dennis Kunkle; Bernard L. Slegel; William W. Rickert Jr.; Thomas W. Chido, Jr.; John Goleazzi; John H. Hauser; Gary Wright; and Dennis McGowan, Meadville, state vice-president.

LBJ Responds to War Policy Critic

BY ROY REED

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — President Johnson, apparently replying to his latest Senate critic, said yesterday he had always recognized that there could be no "military solution" to the problems of Southeast Asia.

But he insisted that only military power could make possible a political solution.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., charged Wednesday, that Johnson had been "brainwashed" by the military-industrial complex into a commitment for a "military solution" in Vietnam.

"We recognize and always have recognized," Johnson said, "there can be no military 'solution' to the problems of Southeast Asia. But we have also had to face the hard reality that only military power can bar aggression and make a political solution possible."

The President chose a Medal of Honor ceremony as he often does when he wants to discuss the war, for his reply. He presented the medal to Spec. 5, David C. Doby, an Army man from Oaks, Pa.

Speaking to a crowd of soldiers and civilians in the East Room of the White House, he said:

"I am often asked, 'why do you say so little in reply to the critics of the war?'"

"The answer is simple," he said. "No one hates war and killing more than I do. No sane American can greet the news from Vietnam with enthusiasm. Indeed, an American who rejoiced in war and conflict should be instantly removed from any position of responsibility."

He said he wished for nothing more than a swift and honorable resolution of "our differences" in Vietnam.

"We have offered to talk, anywhere, at any time," he said. "But until there is a response that might lead to a just political settlement, we must and will fight to prevent others from imposing their military solution on the people of South Vietnam."

He said "Until the day comes when we can lay down our arms and deal in good faith with North Vietnam across a conference table, brave young men like David Doby will have to fight to assure others their freedom."

The President's remarks came after a three-day onslaught of congressional criticism and questioning.

U.S. Jets Blast Haiphong Bridge

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy bombers attacked the railroad highway bridge 1 mile west of the center of Haiphong yesterday in the stepped-up air campaign to throttle the vital flow of supplies out of the North Vietnamese port city.

Pilots reported their bombs raised a dense pall of smoke over the target area.

To the south, Air Force tactical bombers and eight-engine B-52s hammered at North Vietnamese positions in and above the demilitarized zone to ease pressure on U.S. Marines strung out in forward combat bases south of the DMZ.

The Marine command said 64 enemy artillery, rocket and mortar rounds hit Marine positions yesterday in a third straight day of subdued enemy fire.

In South Vietnam, U.S. headquarters reported a series of small ground clashes, but the fighting was generally light and scattered.

The intensified U.S. air war against the North was mentioned in a broadcast from Hanoi that said two American planes were shot down over Haiphong yesterday.

American authorities had no immediate comment.

A Haiphong city committee, Pham Gia Tuan, complained in a statement relayed abroad by North Vietnam's official news agency that the raiders in the past have sometimes hit the heavily populated heart of the city.

Tuan declared 600 houses, three schools, three hospitals and "many" economic establishments have been damaged or destroyed. He offered no assessment of the effectiveness of the American campaign, aimed largely against bridges to prevent trains and trucks from moving into the countryside where war supplies that ships bring to the city.

Congo Uprising Said Collapsing

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) — A Red Cross agent will fly to Geneva tomorrow with word that the mercenaries and the government are ready to end the mercenaries' 82-day occupation of Bukavu. It was learned yesterday. This would mean the collapse of the three-month mercenary uprising in the Congo.

France Calls for Viet Peace Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville renewed yesterday his government's call for a "decisive initiative" from the United States to end the "cruel and destructive" war in Vietnam.

He suggested in a policy addressed to the U.N. General Assembly that such an initiative might be an unconditional cessation of the U.S. bombing that is "ravaging North Vietnam."

"No one would approve of such a decision more than the French," he said, "and first because it would put an end to the suffering of many Vietnamese."

But he added that "this indeed would probably be a first step" to peace negotiations.

France was the second U.S. ally in as many days to call for an end to the bombing of North Vietnam. But the government of President Charles de Gaulle has long been critical of American policy in Southeast Asia and the Couve de Murville statement was no surprise.

Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin told the 122-nation assembly Wednesday that any efforts to open negotiations between the two sides were "doomed to failure unless the bombing is stopped."

Block Hike in Gas Rates At Jamestown

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — An effort to increase the gas rates for 24,000 Jamestown area consumers was blocked at least temporarily yesterday afternoon by the New York State Public Service Commission.

Pennsylvania Gas Co. of Warren had petitioned the Public Service Commission some time ago to put rate increases into effect on Monday, Oct. 1. The rate increases would have provided an additional revenue of $450,000 per year, which the company says it must have to offset increased costs for labor and material.

The Public Service Commission said it would hold a public hearing in the very near future to determine whether or not the increased rate can be justified.

'Soviets' Beefed-Up Force Said 'Formidable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said last night the Soviet Union has beefed up its naval fleet in the Mediterranean by as many as 15 ships since the Middle East war.

Moorer credited Russia with a "rather formidable force" of 35 to 40 vessels in the Mediterranean, compared with 25 to 30 before the Middle East war.

The increase points up Russia's big move in recent years to become a dominant sea power, the admiral said.

His comments were prepared for the National Security Industrial Association's annual dinner.

Among Soviet vessels now roaming the Mediterranean, Moorer said, are 4 to 6 submarines, about 14 surface fighting ships and 10 to 12 support vessels, plus an increased number of intelligence-collecting trawlers.

The admiral said the Soviet expansion of naval and merchant marine fleets could be "most telling in its impact on the future course of world events."

Bill on Imports Passed by House

Details on Front Page Of Second Section

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed yesterday a bill that would permit workers, communities or industries injured by low-cost imported goods to get an investigation of their complaint by the secretary of labor.

Whether it would do much more was left in doubt by the two-hour debate which preceded passage of the bill by a 340 to 29 roll call vote. Now goes to the Senate.

Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., author of the bill, said the administration was waging a backstage campaign to defeat or delay the bill, but only a few voices were raised against it.

Police Seal Off Saigon Streets Against Marches

SAIGON (AP) — Police sealed off all streets leading to Saigon's Presidential Palace today against possible renewed Buddhist demonstrations as 1,000 Buddhists gathered at the An Quang pagoda two miles away.

Militant Buddhist Thich Tri Quang led 1,000 monks and nuns on a protest march to the palace yesterday. A meeting last night in the palace between Quang and representatives of the government apparently was fruitless and the government was preparing for more serious Buddhist demonstrations.

The Buddhists filled the street in front of the An Quang pagoda and jammed inside. Their leaders conferred and sources said they were awaiting word from Quang on whether to march again.

Fire Call

Warren Borough Fire Department was called to 340 Pennsylvania ave. W. at 3:10 p.m. Wednesday, when an auto was leaking gasoline. Officials at the fire department said there was no fire. The spilled gasoline was flushed with a booster line. Two firemen were on the scene for 34 minutes, officials said.

RAINFALL SWELLS PUDDLE INTO SMALL POND

Surface water running through a field just off the old Russell-Akeley road swells what would normally be a roadside puddle into a small pond. Along the Kiantone road yesterday, flares warned motorists of water flowing across the road, posing a driving hazard.

Quaker State Directors OK 2-for-1 Split

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — A two-for-one stock split was approved Thursday by directors of Quaker State Oil Refining Corp. The move, which would reduce stock value from $10 to $5 a share, will be voted on Oct. 27 at a special meeting of shareholders.

Expect 'Normalcy' In N.Y. Schools

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—The city's teachers voted overwhelmingly yesterday to ratify the new school contract and end the 14-day walkout that had disrupted education for more than a million public school pupils.

The approval by a better than 5-to-1 margin was announced shortly after 2 p.m., too late for teachers to return to work yesterday, but all the city's 900 public schools were expected to be in full operation today.

Albert Shanker, the president of the United Federation of Teachers, said, "all teachers will be back Friday."

Alfred A. Giardino, president of the Board of Education, declared:

"We expect every child back in the classroom tomorrow morning, bright and early."

"We expect that every school will be operating with normalcy, with understanding and with tolerance of other people's points of view. It is up to everyone to focus full attention on the children."

The vote to accept the contract was 18,221 to 2,442. These figures include votes of teachers and other school employees, such as secretaries, psychologists and social workers, who are also represented by the 50,000-member union.

The pact, put into final form on Tuesday after weeks of bitter negotiations, will give teachers $135.4-million in salary increases and other benefits over a 26-month period. It also mandates certain improvements in working and school conditions.

Even as the city system prepared to move into high gear yesterday morning, school officials continued to assess the impact of the walkout that started on Sept. 11, the first day of the fall term.

Officials estimated that the sharp drop in pupil attendance because of the stoppage could cost the system between $10-million and $12-million in lost state aid. Only 141,612 pupils, about 14 per cent of the total enrollment, showed up for make-shift classes on Wednesday, and some days attendance was even poorer.

More than 20 Government Agencies Face Fund Cutoff

BY MAJORIE HUNTER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Caught up in a partisan impasse over how to cut federal spending, more than a score of government agencies face a temporary shut-off of operating funds after midnight Saturday.

This became certain yesterday as House Democrats insisted that Congress do the budget trimming while Republicans continued to press for a mandatory $5 billion spending slash by the President.

Left stalled — at least until sometime next week — was a simple five-line resolution granting temporary spending authority to agencies whose money bills have not yet cleared Congress.

Congress and government officials stressed that the shut-off of funds for just a few days would not impair agency operations.

Employees will still be paid for work done before Oct. 1. Other bills incurred before that time also could be paid. Thus, the agencies would be only technically penniless.

However, if the congressional stalemate continued for several weeks — something that neither Democrats nor Republicans consider likely — government operations would be seriously impaired.

Departments and agencies affected by the funds shutoff include Agriculture, State, Commerce, Justice, Labor, Health, Education and Welfare, Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, Veterans Administration, and others.

So far this year, Congress has cleared money bills only for Defense, Treasury, Interior, Post Office, the White House and for Congress itself.

The bitter tug of war began Wednesday when House Republicans sought to attach to the temporary financing measure a demand that President Johnson slash federal spending by at least $5 billion.

Democrat leaders balked. Congress, not the President, should do whatever trimming is needed, they insisted.

Blocked by a ruling that they could not attach their mandatory spending limitation to the measure, Republicans mustered enough votes to send the routine financing bill back to the appropriations committee.

Voting with the Republicans were 34 Democrats, including the chairman of the tax-writing ways and means committee, Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Israel Denies 'Settling'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Israeli embassy informed the United States yesterday that Israel's planned settlements on captured Arab territory were necessary for reasons of military security and did not signal any change in Israeli policy toward these regions.

The Israeli message, conveyed by Ambassador Abraham Harman to Lucius D. Battle, assistant secretary of state for Near East and South Asia affairs, was in response to a public rebuke from the State Department.

State said that Premier Levi Eshkol's reported announcement of plans to send settlers into regions seized from Jordan during the war in June appeared "inconsistent" with Israel's earlier statements that the future of occupied territories was a "matter for negotiation" with the Arabs.

American and Israeli sources said that Israel's explanation was that she was not really establishing settlements in the region between Bethlehem and Hebron, as reported, but was only setting up "military strongpoints."

Harman was quoted as having said that Israel was placing Nahal units in this region for reasons of military security. Israel officials described Nahal units as elements of the Israeli defense force established several years ago and capable of combining defense duties with farm work.

India Attacks Treaty on Nuclear Spread

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
GENEVA — India denounced yesterday as "discriminatory and ineffective" the draft treaty proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union to limit the spread of nuclear weapons.

Vishnu C. Trivedi, the Indian delegate, also asserted at the 17-nation disarmament conference that the proposed treaty not only failed to add to the security of non-nuclear states "but in fact increases their insecurity."

There was no immediate response in the conference room to the outspoken 20-page statement read by the Indian diplomat. But later one delegation official privately described it as "utterly negative and destructive."

Nicolae Ceausescu of Rumania dissociated himself firmly yesterday from the line taken by Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria by criticizing the proposed draft almost as sharply as the Indian delegate.

The Rumanian representative denounced, as did Trivedi, the failure of the draft to contain "one firm obligation for the powers possessing nuclear arms to undertake effective disarmament measures," such as a halt in the production of atomic weapons.

WITH HUSH-HUSH ORDER ON VIET POLICY

LBJ 'Covers His Political Flanks'

By HANSON W. BALDWIN
N.Y. Times Military Editor
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—President Johnson has ordered that a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff attend all future White House discussions involving the bombing of North Vietnam.

Washington sources confirmed that the presidential instruction was issued recently, apparently in reaction to the Aug. 31 report on the air war against North Vietnam of the preparedness investigating subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The committee, headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., emphasized the "diametrically opposed views" of the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff about the importance of closing the port of Haiphong and of bombing other targets, and urged that "greater weight be given" to recommendations of "our high ranking military experts."

Testimony given to the committee has shown that on some occasions in the past bombing policies and targeting had been discussed at the White House with no military officer present.

The terms of the presidential order were not available. The Pentagon was "close-mouthed" about the order, and White House sources provided no direct response to queries, neither confirming nor denying that the order had been issued. However, the order is believed to have been an informal instruction intended to apply to all instances involving policy and targeting issues.

Washington sources did not interpret it as in any way reflecting on Secretary of Defense McNamara, who has been during most of his almost seven years in office the principal Pentagon spokesman at the White House. Rather, it was believed a move by the President to "cover his political flanks" as one observer put it.

It serves to meet heading such criticism as that of the Stennis committee by emphasizing that in the future at least the President can claim that he has always sought military advice before making military decisions.

Johnson is also believed to be sensitive to the disagreements between high-ranking uniformed personnel and McNamara, and he is aware that the Vietnamese war has been described as "Mc-

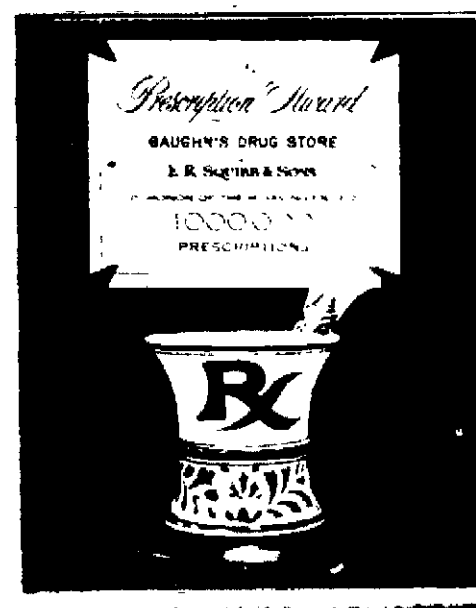

Namara's war."

For a time, such a description appeared to be to some observers a kind of political lightning rod for the President, but with the growing public evidence of major differences between the military and the civilian chiefs in the Pentagon, and with an increasing sense of frustration in the military about the limitations on their conduct of the war, it appeared desirable to associate the military more closely with the presidential policies.

Under the law the Joint Chiefs of Staff are charged with being the "principal military advisers to the President and the Secretary of Defense."

The general view of many top-ranking military men—just below the Joint Chiefs level—has been that the machinery and methods developed since McNamara took office have tended to filter out or dilute much military advice. They have felt that military factors have not received proper weighting at the top levels of the government.

Johnson's recent order is said to represent an attempt to show that this point of view does not have any validity.

Congressional action taken Wednesday indicates that at least some of our legislators are determined to put a halt to federal spending some place.

New Economics, Old Politics

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
The Johnson administration makes a good case for the President's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge, but so far it has not won much backing in Congress.

This led Arthur W. Okun, a member of the Council of Economics Advisers, to raise a point that, in the long run, might be even more important than the immediate economic out look.

In a recent speech at New York, Okun suggested that not only next year's price index but "the future of rational economic policy hangs in the balance" as Congress debates the surcharge.

"The large stimulative tax reductions of 1962-65 were predicted on the assumption that, if an emergency developed and if it were necessary to reverse course, we could do so," Okun said. "In fact, we cannot change course, that would be a potent argument against ever cutting taxes."

Okun has good cause to be worried. Stated in layman's generalities, the theory of the new economics is that the national economy can be stimulated when necessary by cutting taxes to increase consumer buying power; but when this stimulus brings industrial production near capacity and prices close to inflationary levels, the brakes should be applied by a tax increase to reduce buying power.

Obviously, this process won't work and is actively dangerous if, when the time comes, those responsible refuse to take the politically unpopular step of raising taxes. And that appears to be the possible outcome in the case of the Johnson surcharge.

Secretary of the Treasury Fowler has threatened members of Congress with political defeat next year if they reject the tax increase; that will bring on inflation, he said, and since inflation would hurt the American family pocketbook worse than the surcharge, the American voter would turn out those whose irresponsibility caused the inflation.

William McMartin Jr., the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has threatened Congress in another way. If the members don't raise taxes to curb inflation, he said, the Fed will be forced to clamp its iron fist on the money supply, driving up interest rates in the process. Every congressman knows that "tight money" is just about as damaging an issue as inflation or a tax increase.

Nevertheless, these threats have had little effect against the overwhelming public unpopularity of the tax surcharge.

In fact, the House Ways and Means Committee is doing some reciprocal threatening. If the President wants the tax increase, Chairman Wilbur Mills has made clear, he will have to order some drastic cuts in federal spending.

None of this has moved the tax bill forward, although the general belief in Washington is that the economic situation and the support for the surcharge mustered by the administration among influential businessmen ultimately will force Congress to take some favorable action.

But even the delay adds point to Okun's fears. Citing evidence of increasing industrial production and declining unemployment, the Morgan Guaranty survey concluded last week that "large risks are involved in the almost casual attitude that seems to prevail in Congress with regard to the proposed tax measure."

Moreover, there is little prospect that Congress and President can agree on really substantial spending cuts—much less that these cuts ought to be made. And the Republican plan to impose a statutory limit on actual spending not only invades executive prerogatives but would cut back the same as well as the least necessary programs.

Unfortunately, the administration's record is not clearly better than that of Congress. In early 1966, there also was a case for a tax increase, made stronger in retrospect when it was discovered that the Vietnam war was costing $20 billion rather than the $10 billion claimed by the administration.

But the President did not ask for a tax increase then. In an election year, instead, the administration insisted on its "guns and butter" approach until the likelihood of a huge deficit in another election year produced the surcharge proposal.

What Arthur Okun is really asking, therefore, is whether the old politics can tolerate the new economics. Is it ever going to be possible for politicians who have to respond to the public to act with enough speed and harmony to make tax increases a vital tool of a "rational economic policy."

About Your Income

How does your income rate? You are in the upper half of all families in the U.S. If your family income is $7,400 or more. This is how high the median income has risen in our country (median means half the families are above and half are below the figures).

You are in the upper third of all families if your income is $10,000 or more. A full 30 per cent or about 14.5 million are now in this income bracket.

You are in the upper 10 per cent if your family income tops $15,000. This group now numbers 4.5 million and accounts for 9.2 per cent of all families. How does your family income compare? It's at the highest level ever, if you're typical. In dollar totals you gained 7 per cent last year—and even after price rises are included, your gain in purchasing power was around 4 per cent.

The story of America's ever expanding affluence has become tarnished in this Vietnam Era. The inclination today is to downgrade the extent of the money rise, highlight the extent of the moral decline. But this is not fair.

What is wrong with our society should not be permitted to obscure the shining fact that we have made more economic gains in this single generation than in all previous generations in the U.S. put together. This is nothing to scoff at.

In 1947, for instance, a tiny 2.7 per cent were in the $7,000 and over bracket. In 20 years, this percentage has soared to more than half of America's families. What a giant "jacking up" this reflects!

As recently as 1956—only 10 years ago—a minor 7.9 per cent were in the $10,000 and over bracket. Now this proportion is up to a major 30 per cent. That much of the income gain has been wiped out by taxes and inflation is indisputable. You now need $14,349 just to equal the buying power of $10,000 in 1949.

That there is a painful difference between the financial position of the white and nonwhite family also is indisputable. The average income of the nation's 5 million nonwhite families is $4,626. The average for the nation's 44 million white families is $7,722. A significant 30 per cent of the nonwhite families are below the $3,000 poverty level; only 12.4 per cent of the white families are.

That education makes a tremendous difference in incomes is indisputable too. The median income for the self-employed professional is $18,000. For private household workers it's $2,773.

Still, the black spots stand out so dramatically because they are against a generally bright background—and the forces creating that background should not be scoffed at either.

We have not discovered—or at least agreed to follow—the proper policies to achieve prosperity without inflation. But we have found and agreed to follow the policies which create prosperity with inflation. We have had no recessions since the start of this decade and all the recessions since World War II have, in fact, been comparatively short and mild. In every year—in good times and bad—family incomes have climbed to new records. In 1950 the average for the country was $3,319. Today's level is much more than double that.

Here is a table from Bureau of Census statistics to help you find yourself on the income scale. It includes all families, white and nonwhite.

Total	No. of Families	Pct.
$3,000 to $3,999	3,341,000	6.8
$4,000 to $4,999	3,474,000	7.1
$5,000 to $5,999	4,108,000	8.4
$6,000 to $6,999	4,574,000	9.4
$7,000 to $7,999	4,542,000	9.3
$8,000 to $9,999	7,408,000	15.1
$10,000 to $14,999	10,008,000	20.4
$15,000 and over	4,486,000	9.2

Come Along With Me

Come with me, I'm about to fly around the world. We will go eastbound out of New York and, with luck, be back in New York in two months. It can be exciting, and I will try to render an accurate account of what I see and hear. You can make the trip on this page without ever leaving your easy chair.

Tomorrow at ten A. M., we will leave Kennedy Airport in a Pan-American Airways jet. Six hours later, we will be in London. Who, you ask, are "we"? It is not the spuriously modest "empirical 'we'"; it consists of seven people. There is my wife, Kelly; a moody cinematographer named Richard Winer; another named David Haylock; a misplaced golfer named Gene Kroll; his wife, Sophie, who has teased her hair from five feet two to 5'7"; and my neighbor Wally Lehmann. Oh yes, me too.

Kelly and I made this jaunt five years ago. We expect that the oceans and the real estate will be where we left them. This time, with stopovers of four days in each country, we will visit London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Jerusalem, Istanbul, New Delhi, Bangkok, Saigon, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Honolulu, and home.

The actual flying time, as I recall, is 39½ hours. The distance is 23,000 miles. The cost, first class, is $2,137.74. The price of good hotels and meals and tips is another $1,500. I could say "It's only money," but it isn't. It's a quart of blood, plus the children's kiddy banks.

If you ask me, before I leave, how I view the countries we will visit, I can rely solely on the last impressions I had. England is an aircraft carrier full of tiny gardens. France is a long nose full of American gold pieces. Berlin is an island in a Red Sea.

Rome is a sexy flirtation in church. Jerusalem is a crown of thorns. Istanbul, to me, is an old caliph with a hareem. In New Delhi, I see the dark, compassionate eyes of the hungry. Bangkok is a sampan and a lady in a big coolie hat. Saigon is a schizophrenic tossing a plastic bomb. The British Crown Colony of Hong Kong is a bargain in hot rickshaws. Tokyo is a Philadelphia laundry. Honolulu is a long scented kiss.

On the serious side, I worry about our world. It is shabby and irritable. My generation has failed its responsibilities to the young. We have progressed to a point where we keep a magic missile pointed to our heads, but we cannot cure a common cold. This isn't philosophy. It's a disagreeable assessment.

The big losers of the last war, Germany and Japan, can now afford to lend money to one of the winners, Great Britain. Gold drips from the cracks in Fort Knox and makes puddles in Paris. China cannot grow enough rice to feed 600,000,000 people, but pays two billion dollars for a hydrogen bomb. Berlin, which was once home to 160,000 Jews, now has 6,000 new ones without a rabbi.

Sometimes it seems that, in the babble of incomprehensible tongues, man shouts peace and threatens war. Greed is a virtue; pity is the calling card of the pitiless. We race faster and faster, only to stop, as I will, back where we began.

I am no good at preaching or pontificating, but I will admit to the excitement of a child in a toy shop. The most interesting animals are people. That is why monkeys in cages always look out.

Even those who will be on the Pan-Am flight have special interests. For Wally Lehmann, age 71, a widower with a deep sorrow in his heart, it is the first and last chance to see if Christopher Columbus was right. For Gene Kroll, a Ford dealer with lively intelligence, it is an opportunity to do something he might not have the nerve to do alone—see it all and go home and think about it.

For Sophie, who is Kelly's friend and confidante, the world is a long arcade full of windows of shoes and dresses and coats. To Kelly, the long, long voyage through the air ocean above is a dream come true twice. For Dick Winer, the world is seen through a 1.9 lens with stark realism in preference to pretty scenery. To Haylock, it is sound on magnetic tape; a zoom lens in a geisha house; a furled umbrella clicking on a London sidewalk.

For me, it is an opportunity to take one more critical look at the world. Come along with me. It could be fun. . .

A Change of Heart

WASHINGTON—Vice President Humphrey, a small-town South Dakota druggist and a political product of the Farmer-Labor party, has spent most of his life knocking big business. He now feels that big business has been helpful in promoting better government.

In fact, he has had some heart-warming experiences with businessmen in bettering racial relations this summer.

This new cooperation, Humphrey feels, is partly because business realizes that it has a tremendous stake in the big cities and in stable race relations; partly because President Johnson has tried to encourage business-government cooperation. It was Johnson's idea to combine the Labor and Commerce Departments as a symbol of labor and business harmony. The idea fell flat, but LBJ is still trying to promote better relations between business, labor and government.

During the past summer Vice President Humphrey had various meetings with business leaders. On one occasion he told them: "I'm LBJ's Billy Graham. I go around preaching our doctrine. It's the doctrine of cooperation. There's got to be a partnership between business and government. People on relief are not good customers."

One thing the Vice President did earlier was to take Dan Kimball, president of Aerojet, to Watts in Los Angeles and urge him to set up a factory.

"Dan almost jumped out of his seat with enthusiasm," recalls Hubert. "He not only built one plant but two Aerojet plants at Watts. This is one reason Watts had no riots last summer. There's better employment and more community pride."

The Vice President confides that the government also has some power up its sleeve—namely the power of awarding contracts. Discreetly it has used that power to improve race relations.

He gives credit to General Dynamics for planning a plant in Fort Defiance, Ariz., and to Fairchild Aviation for building a plant at Shiprock, N.M., both in Navaho country. These should be of great help to employment in a long-depressed area.

Humphrey gets quite enthusiastic about some of the big business leaders, including David Rockefeller of Chase Manhattan bank, Henry Ford, and Jim Roche of General Motors. "You are America's best radicals," he told them.

"They don't like it much when I tell them that," Humphrey confided later, "but they know America has to move ahead, and they're moving America."

To Roche, head of the far-flung General Motors Company, he once said: "The fringe benefits of General Motors are better than in any socialist state."

WASHINGTON—(Here comes Peter.) "What do you mean you don't understand the arithmetic, Peter?" (You'd think that out of eight kids we'd have at least one who could understand arithmetic.)

"Look, all they ask you to do is convert 234 base 5 to base 10. Didn't the teacher show you how to do that?" (Fat chance.)

"All right. Give Daddy the book and I'll explain it to you. (This is insane. It says when you get five x's you draw a blue line around them and call it 10, and when you get five groups of five x's with blue lines around all of them you draw a red line around the whole bunch and call it 100. The kid will think I've flipped if I try to tell him that.)

"Look, Peter, it's perfectly simple." (On boy) "In base five the second number to the left of the number on the right tells you how many fives you've got and the number on the right tells you how many ones you have left over." (He's gone absolutely blank.)

"Now, if we want to change 7 base 10 into base 5, what have we got? One 5 and a 2 left over, so we simply write a 1 and a 2 and we have our answer: 7 base ten equals 12 base five." (When, for God's sake, would you have ever to do something as ridiculous as that?)

"You don't understand why you have to learn base five? That's a silly question, Peter. If men were born with five fingers

"The greatest thing Johnson has done," says the Vice President, "is to have made American businessmen understand that we're not trying to dominate them. We want to work together with them."

So speaks the leader of the Farmer-Labor party who spent much of his life bucking big business.

The Appalachia bill which the House of Representatives gutted, as a result of hooky-playing Congressmen, is now in secret conference between the House and the Senate.

The Senate has passed this important bill in April with flying colors, thanks to the masterminding of Sen. Jennings Randolph, who represents the West Virginia segment of long-neglected mid-mountain America.

What happens behind the closed door of a Senate-House committee is not known to the public. However, this column can report that Randolph, a Democrat, with the help of Sen. John Cooper, Kentucky Republican, has been able to reinstate some of the money chopped off by the House, including $26 million for health improvement and vocational training; plus some money for access roads to reach isolated sections of the Appalachian mountains, hitherto accessible only on foot or mule back. The Senate in April had voted money for 2,000 miles of roads. The House chopped this down to 1,200 miles. The conferees have now agreed on a compromise of 1,600 miles.

The Congressmen helping Randolph under the House sabotage are Bob Jones, Ala., Jim Wright, Tex., Ed Edmondson, Okla., and George Fallon, Md., all Democrats.

Chief hatchet man against Appalachia is Rep. "Clean Sheets" Cramer of affluent West Florida, a Republican. Incidentally, this column owes an apology to Cramer for reporting that his Florida laundry manager, Jack Inco, was on the government payroll at $10,189 a year while the Cramer laundry gets $80,000 from the government for washing the linen of MacDill Air Force Base. The figure $10,189 was taken from last year's payroll and is in error. Laundry manager Inco has now received a raise; the figure should read $15,063.48. Our apologies to Rep. Cramer for understating his ability to raid the federal treasury.

Note: The Appalachia bill passed the Senate in 1965 by a vote of 3 to 1. This year the Senate showed its approval of the program to rebuild mid-mountain America by voting for it 5 to 1.

Foreign Minister Gromyko of the Soviet Union wouldn't let him, however. He constantly addressed Manescu as "Comrade President."

filled with blue boxes." (Well, it must have seemed logical to Einstein.)

"How do I know what color boxes come after the red boxes? I'm not a mathematician! I don't design the boxes! I'm just an uneducated, illiterate, complicated." (Well, that cuts it. Here she comes.)

"No, darling, of course I am not screaming at Peter. I am merely trying to explain the difference between base 5 and base 10." (If you don't like the noise, why don't you come out here and try it yourself?)

"Peter, stop crying now and let's forget all about the boxes. Okay? With the boxes we've gotten way ahead of ourselves and if we go on with the boxes" (my ucer is going to perforate) "we're not going to get anywhere." (No wonder everybody in the country needs a psychiatrist. They'll diagnose the kid as a "new schizophrenic" with overt base 5 hostility.)

"Just forget the boxes, Pete, and write down this answer: 234 in base 5 equals 69 in base 10. No, don't worry about it. We'll both get a good night's sleep and tomorrow I'll phone Dr. Teller and ask him how I can explain it to you." (If's immoral but so is the income tax code.)

"What! You've got still more arithmetic?" (If I hadn't married, on my present income, as a bachelor, tonight I could be—)

"All right, Peter, so you've got to tell whether these mathematical processes are associative or commutative." (All right, you know that, what do you know?) "Now, look, Peter, suppose everybody was born with associates instead of parents and commuters instead of ten fingers." (Careful! If you cry it may leave him permanently commutative.)

Two 'Brief' Bills

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook:

SPELLING IT OUT — Rather interestingly perhaps, while the Senate this week was mulling over the plugging problem of what to do about more taxes for Pennsylvania's peasantry, two bills introduced earlier in the month in the Senate languished fully in committee (where they unquestionably will remain).

Both are very simple bills. Both measures are all of three lines in length. Both however are most timely in view of the tax-spending hassle that has dogged legislative ears for the past several months in a bout between anti-administration Democratic lawmakers calling for a cut in expenditures and administration Republicans plumping for increased spending and taxes.

One bill reads as follows: "No bill requiring an expenditure of State funds shall be enacted into law until a bill providing for the revenue to pay for the expenditure has been enacted."

How's that for a starter? Here's the second "briefie" bill:

"Whenever a bill requiring an expenditure of State funds is presented to the General Assembly, the bill or a companion bill shall state the source of revenue from which the moneys shall be paid."

Such specifics as provided in these two bills (S-1511 and S-1152) would really raise hell with an administration—should they ever be enacted.

Curiously and interestingly though, the two bills have been sponsored by none other than two Republicans — Senator Frederick H. Hobbs, Pottsville, and Senator Richard J. Green, Jr., Johnstown, the latter regarded as a rather brave gent for having the audacity (along with Dauphin County Senator William B. Lentz) to openly hedge on the administration's tax increase program!

MORE ON "BRIEFIE" BILLS — When it comes to brevity with an impact, a bill introduced in the House of Representatives before members of that chamber went into their current two weeks recess unquestionably is a titillating one.

There is what is known as the Pennsylvania Public School Code, the bible in effect for the operation of Pennsylvania's public school system. The bill in question, H-1785, carrying twenty sponsors, reads simply as follows:

"Section 1, Section 2511, act of March 10, 1949 (P.L. 30), known as the 'Public School Code of 1949', is repealed."

No — it doesn't mean the School Code would be repealed, although this might seem to be the case at first blush. What would be repealed is a section of the School Code — that section providing for state payments to local districts for closed schools, a bit of a controversial issue at the moment.

HAS IT BEEN WORTH IT? — Nearly a dozen years ago, in 1956 during the Democratic administration of Governor George Michael Leader, the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority (PIDA) was born, the basic idea being that the State would provide financial help as an inducement for industries to locate and expand in Pennsylvania.

Has it worked? Well, within the space of those eleven years, loans by PIDA number 658, the state loans themselves totaling a whopping $132,313,070, used to help finance projects costing a further whopping $350,994,444.

PIDA people say this has produced employment (that otherwise would not be in Pennsylvania) for 96,012 Pennsylvanians with an annual payroll of $419,884,170.

Looking at the picture from a more current standpoint, in the first six months of this year PIDA loans were made to 31 industries, involving more than $9 million in PIDA money with project costs in excess of $25 million. Number of estimated new jobs this will produce: 4701.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

Kisses, Olives And Football

Kissing a girl, as someone once said, is like getting olives out of the bottle; after the first one, the rest come easy.

Not so with picking high school football games. One of our favorite coaches advised us to never bet on a scholastic grid contest, and that may go for predicting the winner and the score as well. Boys, you must admit, will be boys. You can chart speed, strength and ability to some degree, but you can't predict desire, that intangible asset that is 80 per cent of the sport.

Take the Erie East Cathedral Prep clash last weekend, for example. The Warriors had whipped a WPIAL eleven, Beaver Falls and bombed a good McDowell team. Billy Brabender's boys had been rated one of the real powerhouses of Northwestern Pennsylvania (a post-season match-up with Franklin would be a natural) going into the game with the Ramblers.

So, what happened? Prep won 13-6. Why? The Ramblers had more desire.

Two local teams, Warren and Eisenhower, also proved the axiom and cost us two misses last week. General McLane upset title-conscious Northwestern, Bradford Central Christian and Elk CC played to a tie and Salamanca ripped Southwestern, 33-6.

Counting the East-Prep surprise, that gave us six misses in 20 games for a respectable .700 average and boosted our season mark to 33-17 for .660.

But, getting back to kisses and olives, instead of getting easier, the going gets tougher as the season progresses.

Especially this week. This is the most trying week for a grid prognosticator since the first of the season. We have the line on most of the area teams now, but when two of the better teams meet, it becomes a guessing game.

Last week we guessed closest on Grove City's 13-6 victory over Meadville (we predicted 14-7), but really blew the East-Prep contest (we had given the Warriors a big 33-7 romp).

This week we guess:

Warren 13, Oil City 7

Prior to the season, we would have said this would be a close game because both teams were reportedly improved. Now we predict it will be a close game because both clubs have shown notably weak offenses. This is a "must" game for both teams since the Dragons have lost two straight and the Oilers are 0-3; a victory here could turn a potentially disastrous season into a success. Depends on who has more desire.

Westfield 20, Eisenhower 6

The Knights have been as disappointing to us as to the fans, and have cost us two misses in as many weeks. Injuries to key players always hurts a little, but a good team will pull together and work harder to make up the difference. Pull, Knights, and prove us wrong again.

Saegertown 19, Youngsville 14

This game could mean the Crawford County League title. The Eagles have come to life to take two in a row after an opening loss and the Panthers have thumped George Junior Republic, Union City and Randolph. One team is due for a letdown. We're guessing the Panthers will remember last year's 27-0 shellacking.

Elk CC 27, Sheffield 12

The Wolverines are still stumbling while the Crusaders have bumped Emporium, edged Johnsonburg and held Bradford CC to a 19-19 tie. Coach Joe Giordano may have a new look on offense this week, but it will take the Orange and Black a couple games to make the adjustment.

McDowell 20, Titusville 14

The Rockets are riding high, but Gene Mc Namara and Company may be looking ahead to three more Section II clashes. Titusville has the home team advantage, but the Trojans shouldn't be taken lightly. Number one "hunch" pick of the week.

Ridgway 21, St. Marys 7

Second hunch pick. The Flying Dutch are tough, but the Elkers are rolling now. They may be down after outlasting Brockway 40-32 last week, but we can't go against them now.

Franklin 28, Corry 13

The Beavers are an improving ballclub, and the team to beat next season, but they haven't come far enough yet to handle the title-bound Knights. Curt and Bay ride again.

Jamestown 28, Olean 7

Olean has Craig Lyle, but the Red Raiders have John Messina (190 yards in 19 carries against Dunkirk) and are three deep at every position.

Other Games:

DuBois 21, Bradford 14
Kane 20, Johnsonburg 7
Townville 33, Cambridge Springs 0
Conneaut Valley 19, Randolph 6
North East 27, General McLane 13
Erie Academy 25, Erie Tech 7
Ft. LeBeauf 20, Girard 13
Smethport 27, Allegany, N.Y. 7
Port Allegany 21, Bolivar, N.Y. 0
Otto-Eldred 20, Cuba, N.Y. 14
Erie Prep 28, Strong Vincent 7
Northwestern 21, Wattsburg.

WE MISSED, TOO!

Victory over Penn State Gives Navy Offense Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Navy's thrilling 23-22 victory over Penn State lifted the Middies into an early lead in total offense.

Middie End Gets AP's Line Award

By RON RAPOPORT

Rob Taylor, who hates that empty-handed feeling, has been named The Associated Press' college football Lineman of the Week.

The record-setting end for the Naval Academy added another mark to his collection last Saturday when he caught 10 passes, including two for touchdowns in the fourth quarter, as the Middies came from behind twice to beat Penn State 23-22.

The 21-year-old senior now owns Navy's single-game and full-season records for passes caught and yardage. His 140 yards gained Saturday broke a mark he set last season. But if Taylor's totals are impressive, his manner of achieving them sometimes borders on the supernatural.

Take the last quarter against Penn State. With Navy trailing Taylor caught a one-yard pass from quarterback John Cartwright for a touchdown, but the Nittany Lions roared right back for another touchdown and regained the lead.

With less than two minutes to play, the Middies moved 62 yards to the Penn State 16. Cartwright called Taylor's number with 59 seconds to play and found him in the corner of the end zone where he made a leaping, over-the-shoulder grab for the winning score.

"The ball he caught for the final touchdown was really phenomenal," said Navy Coach Bill Elias. "The one he caught before that was beautiful, too, but that last one — I don't know when I've ever seen a prettier one. He really outdid himself."

Taylor, a native of Palo Alto, Calif., has a purely utilitarian approach to pass receiving.

"Look at it this way," the 6-foot-1, 189-pounder said. "If I miss it, it's a long run back to the huddle. If I catch it, the other guys have to come down to me."

Other outstanding linemen last Saturday were Dave Martin, Notre Dame Linebacker; J. D. Hill, Arizona State end; and Danny Lankas, Kansas State Linebacker.

Martin, given the game ball in the 41-8 Irish victory over California, intercepted two passes and made eight tackles. Hill caught 10 for 136 yards in Arizona State's 27-21 defeat by Oregon State.

Lankas made 21 tackles, 16 of them unassisted, as Kansas State upset Colorado State 17-7. It was the first victory for the Wildcats since 1964 and the first winning game for Lankas, a senior, who said he "didn't know whether to cry or cheer." So he did both.

ward pass defense with no completions against it in two tries.

The Service Bureau, noting the rules change that keeps interior linemen at the scrimmage line on punts until the ball is kicked, revealed that the average number of punts a game for both teams so far this season is 12.9. This is 1.1 more than last season's final figure.

UCLA, which has gained an average of 314 yards in two games, is the top team in rushing offense. Dayton is second with 310.5, figures compiled by NCAA Sports Services disclosed today.

The forward passing pacesetter is New Mexico with a 281 yard average for two games. Then come Purdue with 273 and Brigham Young, 264.

Other leaders are Texas Tech in scoring with a 52 point average, Georgia in total defense with 65 yards, Syracuse in rushing defense with a yield of only four yards in one game, and Navy in punting with a 52. yard average.

Georgia also is No. 1 in for-

Football Contest Deadline Extended to 8 P.M. Today

Through an oversight, the entry blank for this week's TMO Football Contest was not included in yesterday's edition. To compensate for the error, the contest deadline will be extended to allow readers to enter by mail or by dropping the contest form off at the TMO office at 333 Hickory Street.

The deadline for this week only has been extended from last night by mail or today at 5 p.m. for drop-offs to 8 p.m. tonight. The TMO's post office box will be checked for contest forms at 8 p.m. tonight and entries will also be accepted at the office until that time.

All other contest rules remain in effect. Entries are limited to one per person. Entrants are cautioned to check the winners only and enter the predicted score on only the tie-breaker at the bottom of the form.

Facsimile forms, a hand-written or typed blank on any size paper and similar in form to the official blank, will be accepted this week and for all weeks for the duration of the contest. First prize is $15, second prize is $10 and third prize is $5, with the winners determined by the most number of right picks on the 24 games, with the score of the tie-breaker used to decide between two or more entries having the same number correct. All entries become the property of the TMO and the decision of the judges is final.

Baltimore Orioles Keeping Bauer At Helm, But Fire Three Coaches

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles announced yesterday that Hank Bauer will continue as manager next season, ending a guessing game over whether he would be fired for the downfall of the 1966 baseball champions.

Bauer was signed after last season for a contract through 1968 at $50,000 a year. The Orioles presently are in seventh place, 16½ games out of first place.

The Orioles started the baseball world last year by winning the American League pennant by nine games and sweeping four straight from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series.

Dragons Fall 20-35 To Trojan Harriers

Erie County cross country teams are giving Warren's harriers a rough time this season. Yesterday, the Dragons traveled to Millcreek Township to meet highly-rated McDowell and came home again with a 20-35 defeat, their third of the season.

Dave Cobb, the Blue and White team's captain, dashed across the finish line first again with 13:25 clocking, but the Trojans swept the next five places. Dogging Cobb's footsteps was John Bannister of the host team, who toured the course in 13:27. Mike Cesnik, Bill Galbreath, Jay Bannister and Ed Scottie, all Trojans, were next across the line in that order.

Larry Maxwell, fast-improving after a pre-season leg injury, was the second Dragon to finish, followed by Randy Brown, Jim Grillo, and John Hahn. The order of finish of other Dragon harriers was Bruce Myers, Grover Cleveland, Dave Blair, Dan Pierce, Dave Dickerson and Al Poust.

Nowat 3-3, the Warren harriers run at Kane on Thursday, then will compete in the Gannon Invitational at Erie next Saturday.

County Teams Idle Tonight

Since none of the four county football teams play tonight the advance story on the games will be carried in tomorrow's edition.

Warren hosts Oil City tomorrow at 2:30. Saegertown is at Youngsville starting at 1:30 Eisenhower plays at Westfield, N.Y. at 1:30 and Sheffield meets Elk County Christian at 8 p.m. at Johnsonburg.

be happy. We cannot hold Brechen, Woodling and Lollar responsible for the present plight of the Orioles.

"They are fine gentlemen, are good baseball men and have made some positive contributions. However, we feel that we can help the performance of the ball club by making these changes at this time.

"Everyone in our organization wishes all three every success."

Brechen had been with the club since the St. Louis Browns franchise moved to Baltimore in 1954.

The other three were brought to the club by Bauer when he became manager in 1964.

Bauer was named manager of the year in 1964 when the Orioles finished third and again when they won the pennant in 1966. The Orioles also finished third in 1965.

"The three of them were real good friends of mine and I think all three of them did a good job," said Bauer, after the announcement.

"We thought there was a change necessary so we made it."

"We've been talking about a number of people as replacements" but he said he was not ready to say from what club or who.

Bauer said he hoped that all three of the coaches would find jobs with other clubs and he said he thinks "they will work out well with other clubs."

"We feel that by making this move and opening up posts for some new men, we can accomplish what we hope to do in 1968 — get the club back on the track."

Aztecs Remain Best Small College Team

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Diego State is showing no signs of relinquishing its small college national football title.

Coach Don Coryell's California Athletic Association Kings, with 20 holdovers from a year ago, smothered Weber State 58-12 last week and took an imposing lead in the Associated Press weekly poll.

They received 12 first place votes from a panel of 18 sports writers and broadcasters for a 58-point bulge over Tennessee State the No. 2 team which also was runner-up in the 1966 final rankings.

Joe Stetson Tops Small Stats Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Stetser, senior quarterback of the Chico State football team, is starting out right where he left off last season.

Stetser was the total offense leader in the college division of the NCAA last season and after two games is second this year to Phil Wainlin of San Francisco University by a mere 58 yards. Right now Wainlin has picked up 644 yards to 586 for Stetser.

The Chico Stater, however, leads the country's college division in passing in the statistics released Thursday by the NCAA Sports Services. He has connected on 52 in his two games as compared to the 48 of Clyde Hewell of Furman in three games.

There's also a familiar name in the rushing department with Don Hass of Montana State, second in last year's final tabulation, runner-up again but this time to Doug Van Boven of Central College in Pella, Iowa.

Hass has gained 553 yards in three games while Van Boven romped for 423 yards in two games.

Terry Fredenberg of the Milwaukee branch of the University of Wisconsin is the pass-catching leader with 19 receptions in two games. Next is Mike Maher of North Central Illinois, who has 18.

Maher is second among the scorers with 32 points. The leader is Dickie Moore of Western Kentucky with 36.

Joe Santos of Bridgeport, Conn., University and Dean Klink of Indiana State are deadlocked for punting honors, each averaging 47.5 yards.

In team statistics, Central Connecticut leads in both rushing and total offense; Carroll in passing; Wiley in total defense and Springfield in scoring.

Surgery Slated For Matt Snell

NEW YORK (AP) — Fullback Matt Snell of the New York football Jets will undergo surgery on his left knee today and will be lost to the team for between six to eight weeks.

Making the announcement yesterday, the Jets said his place on the squad probably will be taken by Billie Joe.

Hank Bauer

Vote of Confidence

Bauer previously had managed at Kansas City 1½ seasons.

The decline of the Orioles from the pinnacle this season was attributed mainly to an epidemic of sore arms on the pitching staff and inactivity for one month of slugger Frank Robinson with a head injury. Brechen was the pitching coach.

Three hurlers of shutouts in the world series, 21-year-old Jim Palmer, 22-year-old Wally Bunker and 25-year-old Dave McNally all had arm miseries this season. Steve Barber, a 10-game winner last year, was shipped off to the New York Yankees after arm trouble.

Last season, Palmer and McNally won 28 games between them. They managed only 10 this year and won't even make the road trip for the last two games of the season Saturday and Sunday at Cleveland.

San Diego is a big, hard-hitting team that might hold its own in faster company.

It has a 220-pound quarterback, Thom Williams, who replaced Don Horn when the latter graduated to the pro Green Bay Packers, and husky ball-carriers such as Heyd Edwards, 245, and Jim Crossley, 210.

The team's line ranged from 215 to 242 pounds. There are veterans manning almost every position on both offense and defense.

On a 10-9-8, etc., graduating basis, San Diego State polled 153 points compared with 95 for Tennessee State, which won over North Carolina A&T 35-0, Arkansas State, 21-8 winner over Western Michigan, is in third place, followed by North Dakota State, Waynesburg, Northwestern Louisiana, University of Texas at Arlington, Parsons, Florida A&M and Montana State, in that order.

Small Top Ten Teams

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points on a 100-0-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1. San Diego State (12) 2-0 153
2. Tennessee State (1) 1-1 95
3. Arkansas State (2) 1-0 69
4. N. Dakota State (1) 3-0 66
5. Waynesburg (1) 2-0 56
6. NW Louisiana 2-0 50
7. U. of Texas at Arlington 2-0 43
8. Parsons 1-0 36
9. Florida A&M 2-0 22
10. Montana State 1-2 20

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Arkansas State, Adams State, Akron, Ball State, Central Michigan, Cheyenne State, Eastern Washington, Eastern Kentucky, Grambling, Howard Payne, Hofstra, Lehigh, Linfield, Lamar Tech, Kearney, Middle Tennessee, Northern Arizona, Morehead, Muskingum, Northern Illinois, North Dakota, Northeast Louisiana, Northern Michigan (1), Montana, McMurry, New Mexico Highlands, Omaha, Puget Sound, Prairie View, Presbyterian, Stippery Rock, Springfield, South Dakota, San Francisco State, Sul Ross, Southwest Texas, Santa Clara, Texas A&I, Tennessee Martin, Western Kentucky, Weber State, Wittenburg, Westminster, Pa., West Chester.

Trap Shoot Set Sunday by Club

FRYBURG — The Fryburg Sportsmen's Trap Shooting Club will hold a 50-bird Lewis class shoot Sunday at the club farm.

The shoot will consist of 25 16-yard targets and 25 handicap targets. Handicap yardage will be determined by the score in 16-yard competition. Also included in the day's schedule is a Lewis class 25 pair of doubles.

Shooting will start at noon. Lewis entries will close at 4:30 p.m. Shooters for targets only, as well as spectators, are welcome.

Nino-Emile Battle Postponed by Rain

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Rain forced a one-day postponement of last night's scheduled world middleweight title fight at Shea Stadium between champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy and ex-champ Emile Griffith of New York.

The 15-round match was rescheduled for tonight at 10 p.m. EDT although the weather forecast said there was an 80 per cent chance of continued rain.

If there is a second postponement the rematch will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m. because the field must be made ready for the New York Jets' football opener Sunday.

Both fighters must weigh in again today at 11 a.m. At yesterday's late morning weigh-in, Benvenuti just made the class limit of 160 pounds and Griffith came in at 155 pounds, his heaviest for a championship match.

In their first fight, April 17, Benvenuti weighed 159, Griffith 153½.

Both fighters said they did not think they would be hurt by the postponement. It was likely they would loosen up briefly to maintain a fighting edge. Griffith planned to shadow box, and Benvenuti expected to walk in the park.

"It really makes no difference to me," said Griffith. "I am ready to fight now, and I'll be ready whenever the fight is held."

"It makes no difference," said Benvenuti through an interpreter. "No, I will have no trouble holding the weight at 160."

Four Tied for Lead At Atlanta Classic

By BEN CHESTER
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Late starting Miller Barber and Randy Glover struggled through the gloom of a raw and blustery day with 3-under-par 69s to match with Don January and Charlie Sifford as a four-way tie for the lead developed yesterday in the opening round of the $115,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

The four veteran pros had a single stroke lead over five other golfers as rain and chilling winds swept the 7,049-yard Atlanta Country Club course in what was described as the roughest day on the PGA tour this year.

January, the 37-year-old PGA champion, paired with Sifford in an early finish and said, "This is my kind of weather."

The tall Dallas, Tex., pro went one over par on the first nine of the par 36-72 layout, but finished with a flurry of birdies to end the backside in 32 strokes.

HIGH-FLYING ANGEL

California Angels' second baseman Bobby Knoop flies through the air as he is taken out by Minnesota's Tony Oliva, but not before he relays the ball to first base to double-up Bob Allison in the sixth inning of Wednesday's game at Metropolitan Stadium. The Twins lost it, 5-1, but maintained a slim lead in the American League pennant race as Boston fell to Cleveland and Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Chicago.

Bookies Make Minnesota Even Favorite for Flag

By WILL GRIMSLEY

The Minnesota Twins now are even money favorites to take the American League pennant in the tense, choke-provoking race which ends Sunday. Detroit is 3-1 while Boston and Chicago have fallen to 5-1 in the revised odds of bookmakers.

"We're not running scared—we're just trying too hard," said Manager Dick Williams, whose Boston Red Sox have dropped two in a row and now are faced with the necessity of beating the Twins in both of the final games tomorrow and Sunday at Boston.

"All we can do is win three straight — and pray," commented Manager Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox.

Games remaining: Minnesota (2) at Boston Sept. 30-Oct. 1; Detroit (4), at home, California, Sept. 29 (2), 30, Oct. 1; Boston (2), at home, Minnesota, Sept. 30, Oct. 1; Chicago (3), at home, Washington, Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 1.

A four-way tie is now impossible since Minnesota and Boston, one game apart, have two games remaining with each other. A three-way deadlock still is possible.

If a playoff is necessary to pick the opponent for the National League St. Louis Cardinals in the World Series it will start Monday Oct. 2. The World Series is scheduled to open Oct. 4.

The Twins can be assured of at least a tie — with only Detroit having a chance to catch them — if they gain a two-game sweep against the Red Sox. A split eliminates Boston.

In case the Twins take two, the Tigers would need to win all their remaining games to force a playoff. If the Twins and Red Sox split, Detroit could clinch the flag outright by taking all of its games and could gain a tie by losing only one.

Stanky and his White Sox need all sorts of breaks. One more loss eliminates them definitely. A combination of events would enable them to gain a tie — but they must win three.

The favored Twins and still hopeful Red Sox are idle today when action resumes with Detroit host to California in a twilight doubleheader and Chicago blocking guard in the country." McVea, a senior from San Antonio, barely edged Florida State quarterback Kim Hammond for the Associated Press back-of-the-week honor by gaining 155 yards on 14 carries as Houston, a touchdown underdog, upset nationally ranked Michigan State, 37-7, last Saturday.

It was Houston's first venture against a Big Ten team and the victory vaulted the Cougars to the No. 3 spot nationally for their first ranking among the top 10.

Duffy Daugherty, the Michigan State coach noted for his humor, was not trying to be humorous when he summarized his reaction to the McVea performance that included runs of 48, 33 and 17 yards.

"I found myself admiring McVea as a runner," Daugherty said. "You had to be close to him to appreciate some of his faking."

McVea's varsity debut for Bill Yeoman, the Houston coach who formerly was an assistant to Daugherty, was a nightmare. In the first football game to be played in the Astrodome, McVea, as a 1965 sophomore, fumbled five times before a national television audience as Tulsa defeated Houston, 14-0.

But Yeoman says that was a long time ago.

"Just as we have been trying to tell everybody as nicely as we can, McVea is probably as good a runner as there is in the country," Yeoman said after the Michigan State upset.

In two games McVea has averaged 8.9 yards while carrying 29 times for 258 yards. In 10 games last year he averaged only 7.4 carries a game but netted 648 yards for an 8.8 average.

Hammond was a substitute for Gary Pajcik, Florida State's injured starting quarterback, but the Melbourne, Fla., senior completed 23 of 40 passes for 280 yards and three touchdowns as State stunned Alabama with a 37-37 tie.

Two West Coast backs also had outstanding performances. O. J. Simpson, Southern California halfback, gained 158 yards on 30 carries as the Trojans defeated Texas, 17-13. UCLA's Greg Gandy carried 19 times for 160 yards as the Bruins defeated Pittsburgh, 40-8.

Crucial Tiger-Angel Tilt Postponed to Pair Today

DETROIT (AP) — The crucial game between Detroit and California was postponed last night because of rain.

The teams will play a twilight doubleheader, starting at 6 p.m., EDT, today.

The Tigers, in second place in the torrid American League pennant race, had planned to send Joe Sparna against Clyde Wright of the Angels, but after a 12-minute delay past the scheduled 8 p.m. starting time, the game was called.

Tiger Stadium was buffeted by a driving drizzle and 44-degree temperatures. Despite the weather, about 10,000 fans turned out for the scheduled opener of the four-game series.

The Tigers are one game behind the Minnesota Twins, in first place in the American League, but the two clubs are tied in the critical loss column.

The Twins were not scheduled yesterday, and Boston, tied with Detroit for second place, and Chicago also had the day off.

Sparma, 15-9, and Earl Wilson, 22-11, are the scheduled pitchers for Detroit today while Wright, 5-4, and Jack Hamilton, 9-6, will hurl for the Angels.

Phils-Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Reliever Dick Farrell preserved a 2-1 victory for Philadelphia over San Francisco yesterday by getting pinch-hitter Willie Mays to ground into a double play with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth inning.

Willie McCovey opened the inning with a single and took second on Jim Hart's infield hit. Tom Haller, attempting to sacrifice, beat out a bunt, filling bases.

Ollie Brown fled out, the runners holding. Farrell relieved starter Rick Wise at this point and got Mays to hit in a shortstop to first double play.

The Phils scored their two runs in the fourth on two walks, Bill White's single and a run scoring double by Clay Dalrymple.

The Giants collected their only run in the sixth on Ty Cline's single and a double by Jim Davenport.

Reds-Braves

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Maloney pitched a four-hit shutout in the opener and Sammy Ellis scattered seven hits in the nightcap as Cincinnati swept a two-night doubleheader from Atlanta yesterday 8-0 and 9-1.

Several Reds' batters chipped in the 10-hit and 16-hit attacks and supplied Maloney and Ellis all the support they needed as the double victory moved Cincinnati into third place ahead of Chicago.

Ellis, 8-11, held the Braves scoreless in the second game until the eighth inning when Felix Millan hit his first major-league home run.

Pete Rose led off the game with his 12th homer to give the Reds an early buge. He batted in another run in the fourth inning on a force play.

The Reds took advantage of Maloney's sharp pitching and a seven-run seventh inning to grab the first game, Maloney struck out 12 and walked only three as he picked up his 15th triumph against 11 losses.

Vada Pinson slammed a two-run triple in the seventh and Tony Perez knocked in his 100th run with a single.

Rain Could Cost Cubs, Hurt Fergy

CHICAGO (AP) — Rain caused cancellation of the Wrigley Field season finale between the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs yesterday and left the third-place battle between the Cubs and Cincinnati Reds wide.

The cancellation meant little to the Cardinals, who already have the NL pennant wrapped up with a 98-60 record.

However, it left the Cubs with only three games left — against the Reds at Cincinnati this week — with a precarious hold on third place at 85-73.

The Card-Cub cancellation also reduced Chicago's Fergy Jenkins' chances of becoming a 20-game winner, Jenkins, scheduled to hurl yesterday against the Cards and Sunday's finale against the Reds, now will wind up taking his 19-13 record against the Reds tonight.

Close Mark Set By Senior Loop

CINCINNATI (AP) — Although the National League pennant race wasn't even close in the latter part of the 1967 season, teams played in a record number of tight ball games, league officials said yesterday.

When the Houston Astros nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 in 11 innings Wednesday night, it marked the 92nd extra inning game played in the league this year and established a major league record.

The number eclipsed by one the former record of 91 extra inning games in which American League clubs played in 1943 and 1946.

Suggests Regional Colleges

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday his administration hoped to establish a community college in every county with a population of 50,000 or more.

He also expressed a desire to set up regional community colleges for those counties that do not meet the population requirement.

"This full system would assure every young Pennsylvanian of an opportunity to enter a higher education facility, regardless of economic limitations," Shafer said.

The governor spoke at a dinner sponsored by the Harrisburg Area Community College.

Shafer said 20,000 young Pennsylvanians are attending the 12 community colleges established since 1964. In addition, nine proposed colleges are in the final planning stage.

The Harrisburg college was the first to be approved by the State Board of Education.

Enemy Mines Wound Many; 'Take a Man's Leg or Arm'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service CUAUET, South Vietnam — At dawn, five Marines slip out of camp and trudge in silence toward a muddy road.

Within moments one of the Marines, Corp. Miles N. Smith of Richfield, N.C., begins waving a two-foot metallic detector wand and an eerie whistle shatters the silence. As Smith keeps walking the whistle grows shriller. Finally he stops and gazes at the ground. He frowns. "It ain't what we're looking for," the 21-year-old Marine says, picking up a chunk of metal stuck in the mud. "Let's keep going."

As members of an engineer platoon based three miles from the southern half of the demilitarized zone, the five Marines are engaged in a delicate and harrowing job—finding mines planted almost nightly by enemy soldiers, probing to see how deeply imbedded they are and

USES BABY AS WEAPON

Using a baby as a weapon, the wife of an Iranian carpet dealer strikes out at an Austrian gendarme during a conflict on the Austrian-German border Wednesday, as other women in the background put on dervish acts. They are part of a group of Iranians without a homeland, expelled from Czechoslovakia last week and handed over to German authorities for transport to Yugoslavia. The group became angry when Austrian officials tried to transport them in buses instead of permitting them to use their aged, overloaded autos.

then detonating them. To Marine officers in northern outposts—as well as Army officers in the central highlands and the Mekong Delta—the problem of anti-tank and anti-personnel mines has been severe. Some Marine officers estimate that as many as 50 per cent of their casualties result from enemy mines.

"These mines don't kill as much as they maim," said a Marine captain in this beach outpost on the Gulf of Tonkin. "They take a man's leg or arm and cause horrible wounds."

Marine officers say that in recent months they have come across several new anti-tank mines made from 105 millimeter artillery shells. They have also found trip wires with Chinese and U.S. made grenades that explode as soon as a Marine falls over the wire. A second type of mine—the Marines call it "a bouncing Betty"—springs into the air and explodes moments after a Marine steps on the mine.

"That's one of the worst," said Gunner Sgt. Charles O'Neil of Salem, Ore., a lean chain-smoking Marine who has been engaged in anti-mine work in Vietnam for nearly a year. "It usually explodes at some one's head."

Pennsylvanians Said Overpaying

By BEN DE FOREST Associated Press Writer PITTSBURGH (AP)—A lawyer told the State Supreme Court yesterday that Pennsylvanians pay $25 million to $50 million a year too much for milk because of Milk Control Commission price regulations.

"Acme, Food Fair and A. & P.," said attorney Harold E. Kohn, "are selling gallons of milk in Delaware, New Jersey and New York for 89 to 90 cents, but in Pennsylvania for $1.06. A gallon jug is sold in Ohio for 74 cents. A half gallon of Sealtest milk is being sold by Penn Fruit in Delaware for 49 cents, but others in Ohio for 41 cents, but by all in Pennsylvania for 55 cents."

"This means," he said, "the people of Pennsylvania are overpaying $25 million to $50 million a year."

Kohn, a Philadelphia lawyer, represents Lily-Penn Food Stores, Lily-Penn and Loudon Hill Farms dairy are asking Supreme Court to remove the milk commission's power to fix minimum prices for wholesale and retail milk sales.

Both dairy firms sold milk below state minimums in the Philadelphia area until the milk commission stepped in and got a court order prohibiting cut-rate sales. Commonwealth Court later upheld the Commission and the Milk Control Law.

Kohn said the dairy firms "have an inherent constitutionally protected right to decide at what price their property shall be sold."

"There is no logical reason today for regulating the price of milk," he said, "any more than there would be for regulating the price of bread or some other product."

Milk price fixing, he said, "now operates only to protect dealers and dairies from competition, an objective which this court has consistently held will not support legislative action."

Kohn said he is not challenging the right of the Commission to fix minimum prices for farmers, but only prices paid for milk processing and prices paid by consumers.

Anthony W. Novastis Jr., an assistant attorney general representing the Milk Commission, said controls should be retained.

He said experience in other states has shown that lack of price controls creates problems. When New Jersey temporarily dropped controls in 1964, he said, there were price wars, "dealers were selling at a loss just to gain volume, and dairy farmers were told not to ship any more milk because the dealers could buy the milk cheaper in Wisconsin."

Roland Morris, representing the Milk Dealers Association of the Philadelphia Area, said lack of controls has created "chaos in many of the other states."

"Most of the states," he said, "have some form of control. It's not for the legislature, not the courts, to decide whether there should be controls."

The Supreme Court will hand down a ruling later. The court, as a rule, usually takes several months before handing down an order or opinion.

Focus on Prejudice In Hiring

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is switching the emphasis of its civil rights law enforcement away from voting rights and school desegregation toward employment discrimination.

It was learned yesterday that this major change has been ordered by Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, who called for "the highest priority" on vigorous enforcement of laws banning discrimination in hiring and promotion.

As a result department lawyers have begun sifting a mass of employment data from at least seven major cities.

The material was obtained by a department task force.

LBJ Talks with Victims of Flood

HARLINGEN, Tex. — President Johnson flew across the familiar but barely recognizable Rio Grande valley yesterday afternoon to see the havoc caused by wind and water in his native state.

From the air he saw a strangely still landscape, stained like a carpet where it was not completely drowned in muddy flood. On the ground, Johnson touched a few of the victims of the disaster and asked about their plight.

Johnson flew from Washington shortly after noon to Austin where he picked up a party of state leaders and flew on to this city of 41,000 persons, 15 miles north of the Rio Grande in the southernmost corner. Climbing into a yellow school bus, Johnson rode a mile to the Harlingen High School, where 1,000 refugees from the floods were lounging on army cots in the gymnasium. He spoke to Jose P. Garcia, the father of nine children, from Laredo, whose home had been wiped out. Six of his children exchanged a few words with the President. Three slept right through the event. Johnson also chatted with Esperanza G. Rosales, whose home was one of the 800 or so flooded in this city. He asked her children's ages in Spanish and through a translator learned that her husband, a disabled veteran of World War II, was out looking for a way to lift his family out of its disastrous situation.

'People Fed Up,' Says Gov. Romney

BY WARREN WEAVER JR.

(c) N.Y. Times News Service PHILADELPHIA — Gov. George Romney of Michigan accused the Johnson Administration yesterday of "errors of judgment" in Vietnam, both in prosecuting the war and in attempting to end it.

Spurred to resume the political offensive by support from Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., Romney interrupted his "non-political" tour of the nation's urban slums to make one of his strongest attacks to date on President Johnson.

He read the statement on a bus as his party rolled along Spruce Street toward Philadelphia's slums. Romney said that "the people are fed up with the Administration's false optimism and errors of judgment in directing the war and bringing it to an end."

Wednesday in Washington, Morton, a former assistant secretary of state, charged that Johnson had been "brainwashed" by "the military-industrial complex" into promoting a military solution in Vietnam.

This support for Romney's own statement three weeks ago that he had been "brainwashed" on Vietnam by military and diplomatic leaders was received with enthusiasm.

"Sen. Morton's wealth of experience in the State Department and in the Congress, as well as his party leadership roles, certainly qualifies him to evaluate the miscalculations issued time and again by the Administration with respect to the war in Vietnam," Romney declared.

Originally, the governor announced that he would make no political statements during his 19-day tour, which ends Saturday in Pittsburgh. He was breaking his pledge yesterday, he said, because he had received numerous requests to comment on Morton's remarks on brainwashing.

"He made no slip of the tongue," Romney said of the Kentucky senator. "He put what many people had been thinking into strong words."

"And these times require strong words and firm sound action. For firm sound action, the people themselves must have the truth."

Romney got a mixed reception from Pennsylvania Republican leaders. Gov. Raymond F. Shafer joined him at a luncheon and commended him for pinpointing urban problems for the benefit of himself and other governors.

District attorney Arlen Specter, the Republican candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia, was nowhere to be found, however. He had made it known earlier that he did not feel an association with Romney would be helpful to him in his campaign against Mayor James H. Tate, a Democrat.

LBJ Agrees to Weaken Gun Bill

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has agreed to weaken his gun control bill in order to get it through Congress.

The proposed change would permit the states to exempt themselves from the ban against the mail order sale of rifles and shotguns. The original Administration bill would ban the mail order sale of all firearms.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., author of the Administration bill, introduced the weakening amendment yesterday and issued a statement calling for its support. A similar proposal has been submitted to a House judiciary subcommittee, which has been considering the bill.

Dodd said the amendment was designed to overcome strong opposition to the bill from rural and western states.

"Witnesses from these states have indicated that a mail order ban or stringent controls on mail order rifles and shotguns would effect a hardship on sportsmen, ranchers and farmers whose primary access to sporting rifles and shotguns is through the mail order routes," Dodd said. "Eight of our western states have memorialized Congress to oppose this gun bill mainly because of the inclusion of long arms."

"I believe this amendment will dissipate such opposition," Dodd said.

The amendment would permit a state legislature to enact a law relieving citizens of the state from the outright prohibition on mail order acquisitions of rifles and shotguns, as contained in the bill. The ban would still apply in the sale of hand guns.

Growths Linked to 'The Pill'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Doctors here have discovered a previously unknown type of abnormal growths in some women who have been taking birth control pills.

The growths usually appear as small polyps. They are believed to be noncancerous and harmless, but are considered important because they bear a "disturbing" physical resemblance to cancer, said one of the specialists who made the discovery.

Wrong diagnosis of these polyps could lead to needless radical surgery — removal of the patient's uterus, for example.

The polyps have been seen with increasing frequency during the last two years. They have been found in the lining of the female cervix and only in women who have been taking hormone pills, usually for contraceptive purposes.

In about a third of the cases, the first specialists to see the polyps thought they were cancer, said Dr. Herbert Taylor of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in a recent interview.

Close examination, however, showed that they lacked certain characteristics of cancer tissue. Also, none of the cancer specimens in the institutes files, going back to 1958, revealed cells like those in the newly discovered polyps.

Taylor said it was important for pathologists to learn to recognize these polyps so that they would not be mistaken for cancer.

Taylor said he did not think the polyps were a valid reason for discontinuing use of the pills. Furthermore, he said, he has seen no evidence that the pills have ever caused cancer of the reproductive tract.

The polyps were not seen before the last two years. The reason for their appearance now is unclear, Taylor said. He believes it may be related to recent changes made in the balance of hormones in the pills.

The progestin content has been reduced while the estrogen content has remained constant. Both are female hormones.

Taylor said it was impossible to tell how frequently the polyps occurred, although presumably they were uncommon.

Catholic Manuals Cause Stir

NEW YORK (AP) — New religious teaching manuals, which were attacked as "anti-American and anti-Catholic" in a still-smoldering dispute in Chicago, are being used widely this fall in Roman Catholic schools across the country.

The uproar over the series grew out of its application of Christian teachings to specific problems and activity in society.

For example, a passage in a third-grade catechism reads: "Some people do not like the Rev. (Martin Luther) King. They say he is a troublemaker but, no matter what some people may say, he continues to tell everyone to keep on seeking justice. Rev. King is a brave Christian."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. George G. Higgins, director of U.S. Catholicism's social action department, says the protests showed that the Church's teachings about Christian work in the world are "just beginning to get through to many Catholics and that they are disturbed by it."

In any case, the new catechism for first to eighth graders, called "Word and Worship," is being used this fall in 6,000 schools in 125 dioceses, said a spokesman for the publishers, Benziger Brothers.

OUTLINES ALLEGED PLOT

The Republican candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia, District Attorney Arlen Specter, with arrest warrants spread on his desk, outlines to newsmen an alleged plot by the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), a Negro extremist group, to poison city and police officials in the event of a riot outbreak in Philadelphia. Specter said the plot called for cyanide to be put in coffee and sandwiches served police.

Reagan Discusses Campaign Tactics

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
EUREKA, Ill., Gov. Ronald Reagan of California opened a cross-country speaking trip yesterday with the observation that the Vietnam war would be a major issue in next year's presidential campaign even if the fighting had been stopped.

Reagan, widely discussed as a possible Republican nominee, said: "If the war is ended by our withdrawal, the Republicans should ask why we waited six years to do it. If it's stopped by bringing the enemy to the peace table by force, again it should be asked why we waited so long until an election year."

He added, however, that "the number one issue" in 1968 might not be Vietnam but "the kind of coming-angled that's taking place in our country, the decline of law and order and the rise of crime. It may just be that domestic order is the prime issue."

Asked at a news conference what he thought about the assertion of Kentucky's Sen. Thurston Morton, a GOP spokesman, that President Johnson was being "brainwashed by the military on Vietnam," Reagan said that judgment was difficult because of the "credibility gap" in information being provided the public about the war, and that this "denial" of information itself might be a 1968 issue.

A low-key sort of hero's welcome awaited Reagan, a native of Illinois, on his arrival here to dedicate a new library at his alma mater, Eureka College.

"Welcome, Governor Reagan," banners and placards blared over the streets and in store windows of this little town in the Southern Illinois corn-and-hog-country.

Reagan emphasized that his comments on Vietnam were elicited by reporters' questions rather than volunteered.

His prepared remarks for the dedication ceremony were directed mainly to the students and to the non-partisan question of the purported "generation gap" between those under 30 and those older.

BESIDES POISONING THOUSANDS

Says RAM Planned to Kill LBJ, Hoover

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — District Attorney Arlen Specter said yesterday that a fugitive from a Georgia prison gang has told police of an alleged plot to assassinate Philadelphia's mayor, Specter himself, the police commissioner, President Johnson and FBI director J. Edgar Hoover.

Specter said the informant, Robert Earl Bailey, 23, of Anniston, Ala., also said City Hall, the federal courthouse and Police Administration Building were to be blown in a plot allegedly hatched by the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM).

Specter is the Republican candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia.

Just Wednesday, RAM was charged with planning to start a riot in Philadelphia, then poison thousands of policemen and top city officials. RAM is a Negro extremist group.

Bailey, awaiting extradition proceedings for his return to Georgia, allegedly told police in a long statement Mayor James H. J. Tate, Specter and Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo were to be assassinated, along with the President and Hoover.

Specter said yesterday he had received a report on Bailey's disclosure "some time ago." He said, however, he did not have enough evidence to support filing charges against anyone.

"At this time," Specter said, "all my office can do is continue the investigation."

Bailey allegedly told police he was approached several months ago by a member of RAM, while he was in a Philadelphia prison.

Mayor Tate, he allegedly said, was to be killed by a dynamite charge in his car.

According to Specter, Bailey said RAM members had promised to have him freed so he could kill Rizzo. RAM also had plans for inciting riots and "explosions and assassinations" in Richmond, New York, Washington, and Baltimore, he reportedly said.

Police said Bailey took a lie detector test, which showed he was telling the truth. Disclosure of Bailey's alleged statement came in the wake of the arrest of three of four men accused in the alleged plot to poison "hundreds of policemen" during a planned race riot in Philadelphia.

Two of the men, William James Lyles, 26, and Reginald Grantham, 21, are being held here. The third, Anthony B.

Monteiro, 22, a graduate student in Chicago, gave himself in to police yesterday and said he was willing to return to Philadelphia.

Also named in Specter's warrants was a John Doe. All four listed Philadelphia home addresses.

RAM has been blamed in the past for planning to assassinate moderate Negro leaders and to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other national shrines.

The plan was to incite a riot this past summer, George Fencil, a police officer, said in a court affidavit, then put cyanide in food distributed free to police on "duty as well as in restaurants in which "policemen and citizens would be taking food and drink."

The key to uncovering that plot, Specter said, was information offered by a man identified by Specter as Hilton Louis Jones, 22, who said he was a member of the plotting group.

Specter said Jones went to the Philadelphia office of the FBI last week and turned over more than a half pound of potassium cyanide, "sufficient to kill at least 4,500 persons, according to experts."

ON TRIAL IN BOLIVIA

Guards escort accused Communist conspirator Regis Debray (hatless) back to prison after a recess in his trial at Camiri, Bolivia, Wednesday. Debray, whose father resigned as one of his attorneys Wednesday, and five others are accused of sedition in allegedly aiding a Cuban-directed Communist plot reportedly led by the long-missing 'Che' Guevara.

All-English Mass Date is Moved Up

BY EDWARD B. FISKE
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Roman Catholics in the United States will participate in all-English masses beginning Sunday, Oct. 22 — six weeks earlier than planned.

Archbishop John F. Dearden, of Detroit, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, announced yesterday that after that date the use of English in the entire mass — including the canon, or central part — will be mandatory in all public masses.

The use of English in the "people's" or remaining sections of the mass has been required since 1964.

Archbishop Dearden said that the new translation to be used after Oct. 22 would be authorized only on a temporary basis.

The canon is the central section of the mass and consists primarily of a prayer of thanksgiving. It includes the words of institution, which the committee translated "This is my body" and "This is the cup of my blood, the blood of the new and everlasting covenant — the mystery of faith."

According to traditional Catholic theology, it is during the canon that the bread and wine are transformed into the body and blood of Christ.

Efforts have reportedly been made to provide a translation that was "intelligible" to the ear.

The liberal translation of one section, for instance, would be "United in one fellowship, we reverently call to mind, first, the glorious ever-Virgin Mary, mother of our God and Lord Jesus Christ."

The new translation reads: "In union with the whole church we honor the memory of the saints. We honor Mary, the Virgin mother of Jesus Christ our Lord."

The Roman Catholic Church in Canada will begin using the new translation Sunday.

Greek Junta Arrests Noted Newspaperwoman

ATHENS (AP) — Helen Vlachou, one of Greece's most prominent newspaper publishers, was arrested by the military regime yesterday and charged with insulting the government. She was released after four hours of interrogation pending trial before a military tribunal in October.

Her arrest followed her harsh criticism against two strongmen of the ruling junta, the interior minister, Brig. Stylianos Patakos, and the minister of the premier, Col. George Papadopoulos. She had accused them in a recent interview, published abroad, of being "mediocre and ignorant people" and charged that the army-led government was muzzling the press and persecuting journalists.

Mrs. Vlachou, 56, who comes from a family of distinguished newspaper chain publishers, was arrested by two security policemen shortly before giving a news conference for foreign newsmen at her office. She had closed down her two influential conservative dailies, "Kathimeri" and "Messimbrini," in protest over stiff government press restrictions and censorship imposed after the April 21 army coup.

Her arrest is the latest in a series carried out by the army-led government since the takeover. Another leading publisher, Christos Lambakis, 33, who went into hiding after the coup, was arrested two months later and is still being held.

DON'T THINK CASTRO IS SHIVERING

Diplomats Doubt OAS Move Will Be Effective

By BENJAMIN WELLS

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Diplomats here are privately expressing doubt that the recent meeting of the Organization of American States can or will produce any real tightening of security measures against Cuban Communist agents.

Early Sunday after three days of intensive debate, 20 O.A.S. foreign ministers agreed to urge their governments to take greater "vigilance" against Premier Fidel Castro's growing network of spies and guerrillas.

The agreement was hailed generally as a triumph for Venezuela, Bolivia and the United States, the three members that had been pressing most vigorously for sterner retaliation against Castro.

However, one diplomat expert said the next day: "It looks fine on paper, but if I were Castro I wouldn't be shivering in my boots."

The meeting was held under articles 39 and 40 of the O.A.S. charter, under which resolutions adopted are recommendations only, instead of under the inter-American treaty of reciprocal assistance, in which measures adopted by a two-thirds majority are binding.

It is a widely held view among Latin-American and U.S. diplomats that for all their declarations, the majority of western hemisphere countries are neither professionally or emotionally ready to cope with Cuba's growing professionalism in the field of subversion.

They point, for instance, to the vast size of the continent; to its empty coasts and poorly guarded borders; to national rivalries; to outmoded police techniques; to the graft that frequently attends political meddling in police appointments.

Diplomats say that since 1960, a year after Castro seized power in Cuba and began allying himself with the Communist camp, his subversion schools have turned out at least 2,500 Latin-American Communist agents. This, they note, is the "seedbed" that recruits new agents and foments subversion in virtually every country of the hemisphere.

Some Latin countries, after initial setbacks, are now meeting the challenge.

Peru dispersed a mountain guerrilla group two years ago. Venezuela has recently broken a Castro-backed 50-man terrorist group in Caracas. Nicaragua has scattered a Castro-aided guerrilla movement near Matagalpa, in the north-central mountains, in the last month. With U.S. assistance, Bolivia has recovered from the initial attacks on her ill-trained army by Cuban-led guerrillas last March and April. In an ambush on Aug. 31, Bolivian troops killed or captured the 10-man rear guard of the guerrilla band. The guerrillas were led, according to recent evidence presented by the Bolivian government, by Castro's celebrated aide, Ernesto Che Guevara.

A 16-man special forces unit of the U.S. Army has been advising a Bolivian ranger battalion at a training camp in central Bolivia, the heart of the guerrilla country.

According to the diplomats here, the 40 or 50 remaining guerrillas — including at least 15 Cuban army officers — are still at large in the jungle-mountain country. No one here knows whether Guevara is still with them.

False passports have proved especially difficult to control and have enabled Castro's chief agents to slip through Latin-American frontiers with the ease of mosquitoes through a fishnet.

"Ecuador sells blank passports through its travel agencies," one informant said. "Any professional Communist agent can get one validated easily."

Diplomats here merely shrug when asked what real improvement in vigilance is likely to follow the new recommendations by the O.A.S.

Detectives Go To Art School

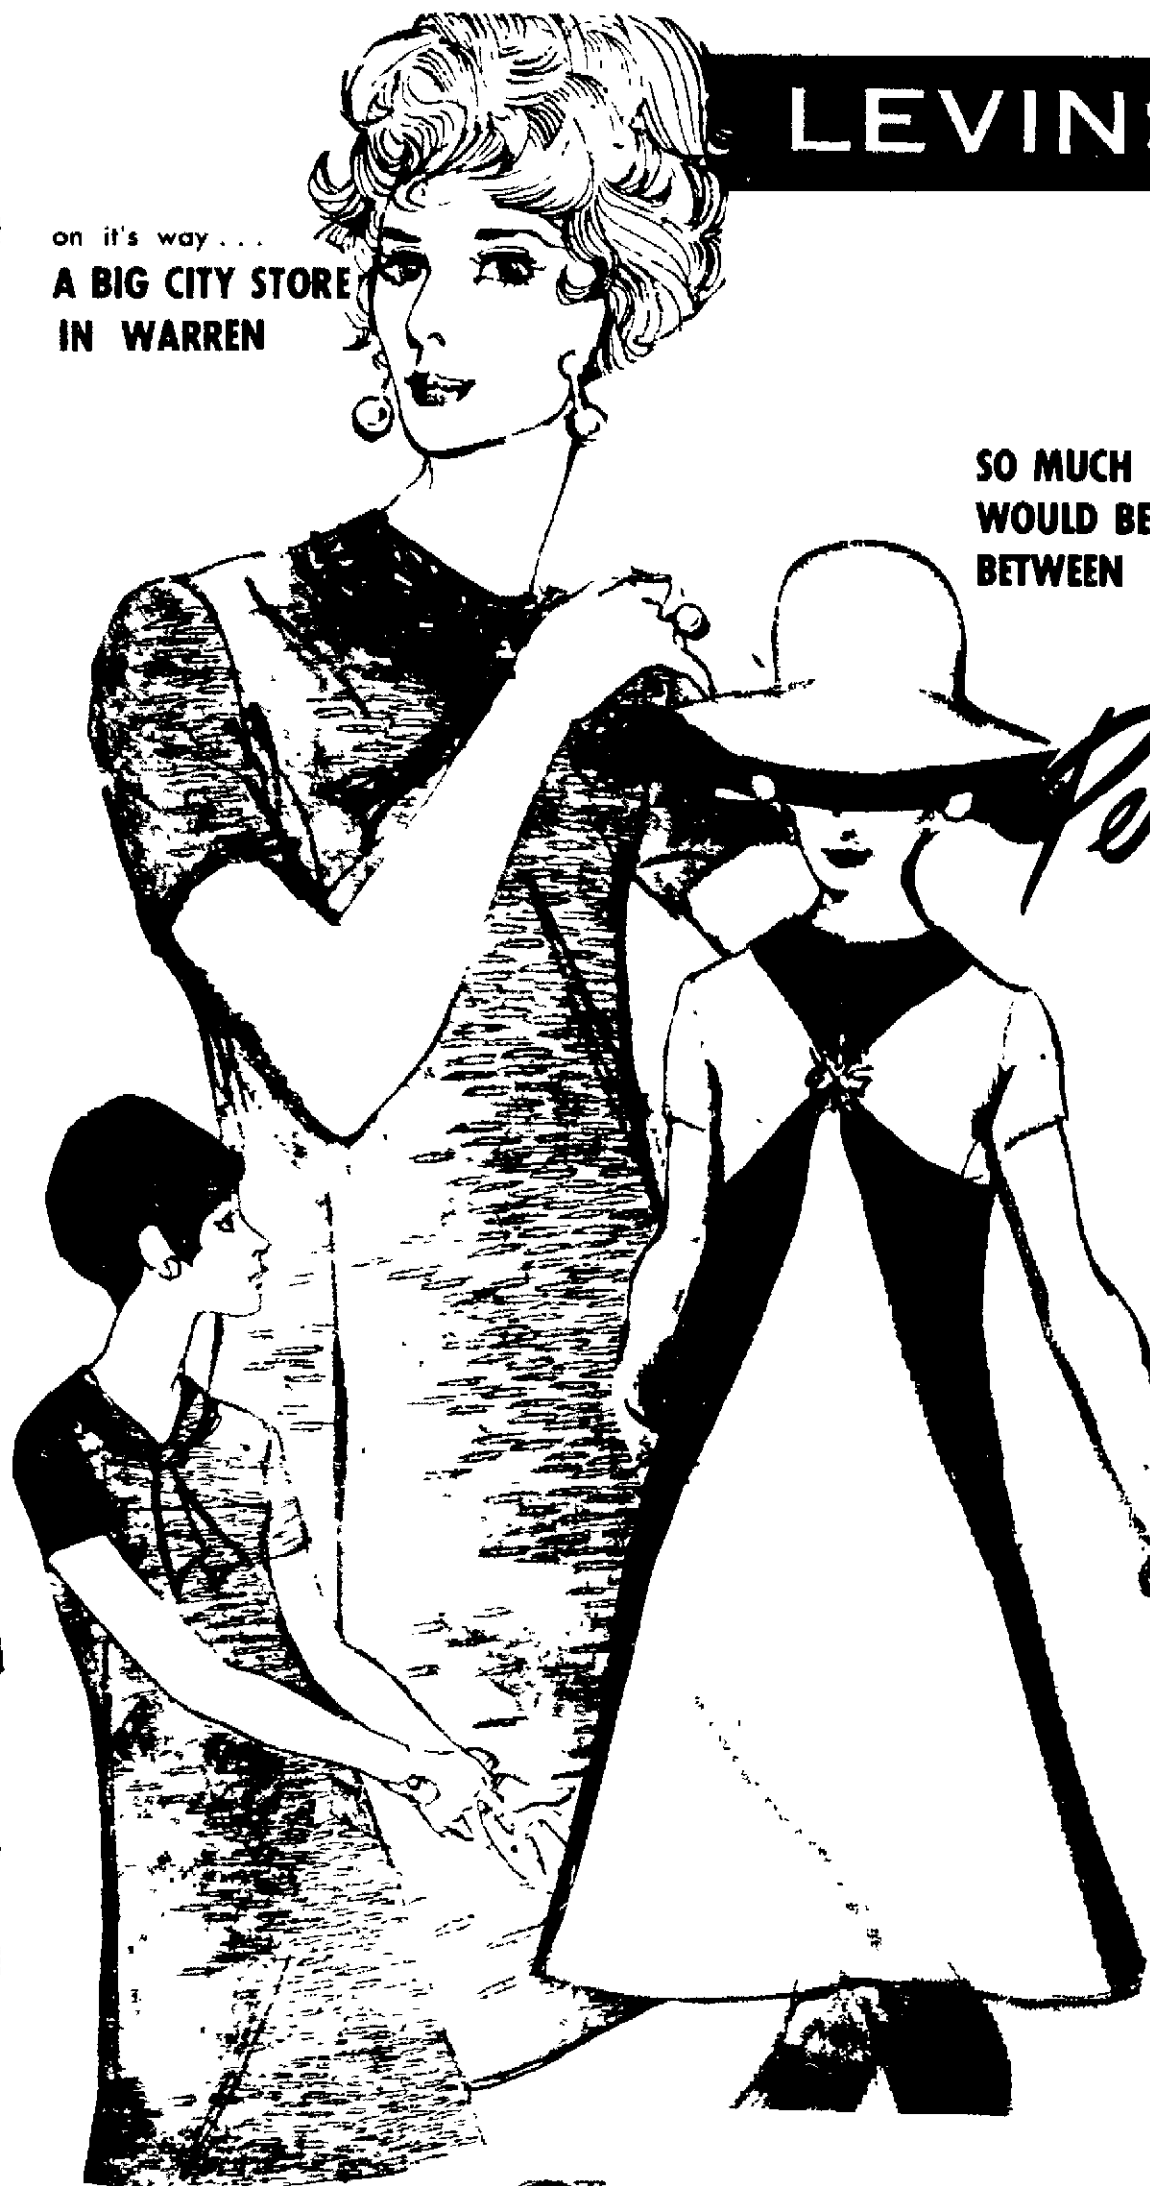

LONDON (AP) — Four Scotland Yard detectives, one a woman, are going to art school in a campaign to cope with a growing racket in faked and stolen paintings. The yard estimates paintings valued at $840,000 are stolen each year and filter back into showrooms and auctions and about the same amount is taken by clever forgers. The detectives will haunt auctions and galleries.

State Tax and Scholarship Bills Readied for Signature

HARRISBURG (AP) — Bills that would increase the tax on big business and appropriate $31.5 million for college scholarships were prepared for Gov. Shafer's signature yesterday during a token session of the House.

Speaker Kenneth B. Lee, interrupting a trip to San Antonio, Tex., presided over the session, which he called for the sole purpose of signing the legislation. Sixteen other members were in attendance.

The state Constitution requires that the presiding officer of the House and Senate must sign all legislation before it is transmitted to the governor. The Senate passed the tax and scholarship bills on Tuesday while the House was in recess.

The governor's office said Shafer would sign the bills Friday.

The tax proposal, part of the governor's $285 million revenue program, would increase the corporate net income levy from 6 to 7 per cent, retroactive Jan. 1. The Shafer Administration estimated the yield at $59.9 million for the current fiscal year. An additional 1 1/2 of 1 per cent will be added on next year.

The scholarships would help finance the education of some 40,000 young Pennsylvanians enrolled in colleges both in and out of the commonwealth.

The Senate's affirmative action came after minority Democrats agreed to provide the necessary votes for the tax bills. Democrats in both House and Senate had been withholding support from the proposed new taxes in the absence of budget cuts by the governor.

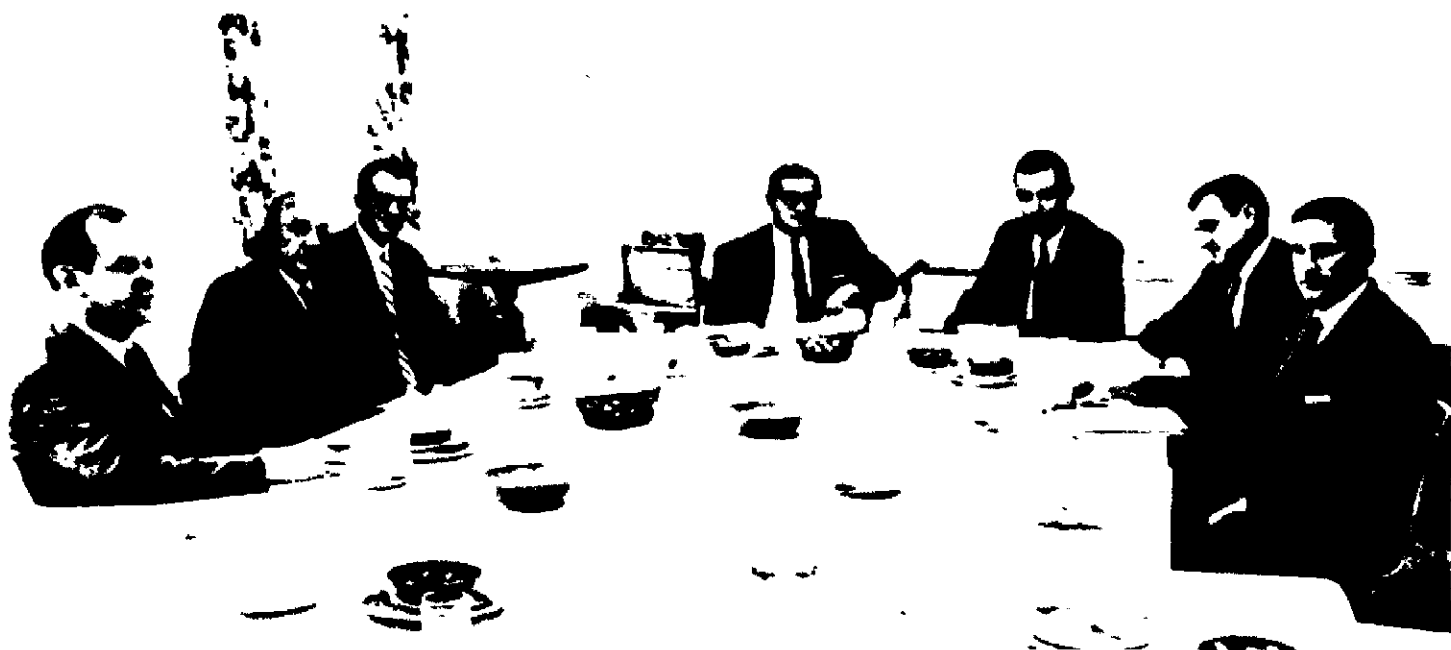

Lee said he believed the Democrats' decision to give in on the corporate net income tax was due to the clamor for enactment of the scholarship bill. Shafer had warned that failure to vote on the appropriation by Oct. 1 would result in students having to pay out of their own pockets monies they had been promised by the state.

"When enough public pressure is exerted for the other appropriations, Democrats will have to provide the votes for the taxes to finance them," Lee said.

He specifically mentioned proposed funds for industrial development, housing assistance and nine subsidies.

Lee planned to return to Texas to rejoin the delegation of Pennsylvania legislators and staff aides attending the National Legislative Conference. The House is not scheduled to reconvene until Oct. 9. The Senate is to meet next week.

The administration estimated that with the passage of the tax bill, another $36 million in appropriations can be enacted without throwing the budget out of balance.

NEW HEALTH COUNCIL

Attacks 'So-Called Free Trade'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., said yesterday he believes the administration is trying to delay House action on his bill designed to provide relief for industries hurt by imports from low-wage nations.

American industry cannot survive, Dent said, "if it is thrown into the jungle of so-called free trade."

The bill was scheduled to reach the House floor yesterday afternoon, Dent said he looked for parliamentary maneuvers seeking to delay consideration of the measure for a couple of weeks.

The congressman told reporters William Roth, the administration's chief negotiator at the last Kennedy round of tariff negotiations at Geneva, Switzerland, visited him Wednesday night.

He said Roth expressed the belief Dent's bill is unnecessary. Dent said he regarded Roth's visit as an effort to get him to withdraw the measure.

Dent said Roth came to him at the request of Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House ways and means committee.

Dent said he has not heard anything directly from President Johnson, the secretary of state, or any White House staffers.

Dent's talk with reporters came after a conference of congressmen, industry and labor representatives who back the bill.

Dent's bill would direct the secretary of labor to conduct an investigation to determine whether imports of a particular product are detrimental to domestic labor or industry.

The secretary would report his findings to the President, who would be directed to take action he deemed proper to protect the American industry.

Some 80-100 representatives of labor unions, industries, and business associations and perhaps 25 congressmen attended a conference in the House caucus room to discuss Dent's bill and to seek sufficient support in the House to assure its passage.

Would Assist Crime Victims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Victims of violent crimes and persons hurt while trying to lend helping hand could receive up to $25,000 compensation under a bill introduced yesterday by Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, Rep., Pa.

The measure would set up a commission to handle the program, which would be limited to those injured by crimes in the District of Columbia and on federal installations.

Schweiker said he hoped the federal program could become a model to encourage states to set up their own compensation plans for crime victims.

Warren Man Arrested On Charge of Bigamy

A 42-year-old Warren man, David William Wight, of 1034 Spring st., has been charged with bigamy, according to Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty.

The charge was filed before Peace Justice Vincent Sprague and Wight is in Warren County jail in lieu of $500 cash or $1,000 property bond.

Hegerty said the complaint was received from Wight's wife, Laura Mae (Ames) Wight, of Conewango avenue ext., whom he married on April 21, 1966. The ceremony police said was performed in Warren borough by a local justice of the peace. Hegerty stated records show that Wight was married again on Tuesday, of this week to another Warren woman, described as an innocent victim in the case.

Police noted that Wight's marriage to Laura Mae Wight had not been dissolved by divorce, annulment or death.

District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita said this may be the first bigamy case to be prosecuted in the history of the county.

Bigamy is a misdemeanor and carries a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and two years in jail. The investigation is being continued.

Sen. Frame Votes 'Yes'

State Senator Richard E. Frame voted for eight bills which passed the senate today. The legislation dealt with the following major bills: Senate Bill 1124, 1125, 1126 and 1127, authorizing the appropriation of funds for urban common carrier mass transportation purposes by third class cities, first class townships, second class townships and boroughs.

House Bill 537, amending the borough code by changing compensation of members of borough council; HB 538, further regulating salaries of mayors of council.

HB 1287, increasing the rate of the Corporate Net Income Tax from the present six per cent, providing increased tax revenues of $60 million; HB 1357, amending the county code by increasing the compensation of county commissioners in seven class counties.

HB 1358, increasing the salaries of county commissioners in sixth class counties; HB 1461, authorizing second class counties to appropriate funds for traffic control devices and HB 1727, providing funds, $34.6 million, for the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency for scholarships and educational assistance grants.

Plan Cardiac Clinical Day In Jamestown on Oct. 12th

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — One of the outstanding physicians who will participate in the Jamestown Medical Society's Cardiac Clinical Day on October 12 is Dr. Gumerindo Blanco, senior instructor in thoracic surgery at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, Philadelphia. He will lecture on, "Recent Advances in Cardiac Surgery" at 11:45 a.m.

Born and educated in Puerto Rico until he received his medical degree from Columbia University in New York in 1945, Dr. Blanco interned at Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, served two years as medical officer in the Army and took his surgical residency at San Juan City Hospital in Puerto Rico.

The next seven years were spent in various surgical professorships in Puerto Rico until 1957 when Dr. Blanco became director of Cardiac Surgery Research at the Mary Bailey Foundation for the study of the Heart and Great Vessels in Philadelphia.

He also has served as chief of the Cardiovascular Section, Department of Surgery of the West Jersey Hospital, Camden, N. J., and was an associate in Thoracic Surgery at Hahnemann prior to assuming his present teaching position.

Famous Couple Visits Bradford

The Duke and Duchess of Bedford arrived in Bradford yesterday via Allegheny Airlines to open the Bradford Antiques Show with a lecture at 8:30 p.m. The famous couple was welcomed by Mrs. Mary O'Mara, chairman of the show, and Mrs. Robert Cole, vice chairman.

The British visitors are staying at the Holiday Inn and a reception in their honor was held from 5 to 6:30 p.m. yesterday.

Clever Name

The name given one of those compact campers viewed so often on the highways was noted recently. The owners dubbed the vehicle "Our Out House."

Cited For Reckless Driving

A Warren man was cited for reckless driving following a two-car traffic mishap at 5:45 a.m. yesterday on Pennsylvania ave.

Borough police stated that a car operated by Rodney Kenneth Rudolph, of 126 Oak st., traveling west on the avenue crossed over the center line and struck an eastbound truck driven by Harold E. Anthony, 11 Dutch rd.

Anthony suffered minor injuries in the mishap and Rudolph, police said, who fell asleep at the wheel, was charged with reckless driving.

Property damage totaled $900.

Health Council Formed

The executive committee and full board of the newly-formed Northwest Pennsylvania Health Facility Planning Council met in two separate sessions Wednesday in Warren.

The executive session was held in the afternoon at Warren General Hospital and the full board at Three Flags Inn for dinner.

The council covers 16 counties in the northwest region and its formation was recommended basically by hospital administrators.

Robert Kinney, Warren General Hospital administrator, said while the council is currently concerned with hospitals, it is expected its function will expand to other related health facilities in the future.

The council's aim to coordination and comprehensive planning for hospitals with corporate leadership to play a vital role.

The group will study various hospital's plans and procedures and forward recommendations to the state and federal level. Kinney explained if council's recommendations be favorable, or not it might affect federal funding in some areas.

William Hill Jr., Warren County representative to the council, said that 20 members attended the dinner meeting where Hill was named chairman of the personnel committee to screen applicants for the post of executive director.

Hill said Kenneth C. Carlson, McKean County representative and treasurer, discussed finances for the first year of operation and the board approved his recommendations. The council is composed of lay individuals and leaders in the communities. Corporate leadership will be sought in all 16 counties.

Archaeologist Youngsville Club Speaker

John Zavinski, assistant cashier at Warren National Bank and an amateur archaeologist, was guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Youngsville Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Zavinski explained the work and findings of the Kinzua archaeological group and told how the Sugar Run dig was conducted. The talk was illustrated with slides and an exhibition of the speaker's collection of projectile points such as his findings of stone tools and pottery in the Sugar Run area.

The Rev. Fred Foster of Napoleon, Ill., was also a guest at the meeting.

It was announced that Inter-City will be held in Port Colborne, Canada, Oct. 17 and that Charter night is scheduled for Nov. 14.

Gib Anderson was named chairman of the annual fruit cake holiday season sale project.

Leo Johnson, Hank Kane and Howard Husted will attend the Kiwanis convention in York next week.

Prior to the business meeting, dinner was served by the women of First Methodist Church.

Bomb Scare Clears School

SALESBURY, Pa. (AP) — An anonymous bomb scare forced the evacuation of 320 pupils at Salesbury Elk Lick High School in Somerset County.

The caller said a bomb had been planted in the boiler room and was scheduled to go off at 1 p.m. State police searched the building and found nothing. Classes were dismissed for the day.

ACCESSORIES FOR M'LADY

'Portraits Zonta Fashion Show Coming

To the left, Dorothy Holyfield, also of Zonta, and Levinson's fashion coordinator, is assisting teenage Julie Fino to get just the right turn of collar for the coat she is modeling.

The apparel to be shown next Wednesday will include knit ensembles in two and three pieces, half-sizes, and straight sizes; Dacron knits; sportswear by Pendleton and The Villager; cocktail dresses; and the Junior Look. There will be clothes suitable for all occasions through the day, including evening. The fashions will all be from Levinson Brothers, with hats from Levinsons too. Jewelry will be from Isabelle's Specialty Shoppe.

TEENAGE FASHIONS TOO

A highlight will be the Butte Knit suit some fortunate woman will have for her own before the evening is over, and the gift certificates to be awarded. Narration will be done by Helene Iseman, and organ music will be provided by Alice Fox. During intermission the Warren Barbershop's singing quartet, "The Instigators" will be heard.

Tickets are $1 per person and may be obtained from any member of Zonta, the Jean Carol Hat Shop, and Isabelle's Specialty Shoppe. The proceeds of the fashion show, will go toward the various civic projects sponsored by Zonta.

Missionary Conference Opens Sponsored By Area Churches

Evangelical United Brethren churches in Youngsville, Chandlers Valley and Pittsfield will join with Jamestown area churches to sponsor the third annual Missionary Conference beginning Sunday, October 1, and continuing through Sunday, October 8.

Speakers included in the eight day conference are:

The Rev. Dr. Calvin H. Reber, Jr., former missionary to China who now serves as professor of missions, United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio.

The Rev. and Mrs. John D. Westley, former pastor to several Erie Conference churches, who have served in northern Nigeria since 1961.

The Rev. and Mrs. M. Donald Penner, Jr., formerly of Cherry Creek and Jamestown, N. Y., who have served as missionaries to Kentucky since 1954.

Mrs. Barbara French, a teacher in Corry, who with her husband, served one term in Sierra Leone, West Africa.

The Rev. Jack Marshall, of Jamestown, N. Y., who has served with Youth for Christ International in Japan beginning in 1962 and who will return to Japan next summer under the auspices of Christian Leadership Training.

The Rev. Charles E. Koch, Jr., a missionary to Latin America, who has served in Venezuela, Bolivia and Peru, and also as an observer in a year-long effort of in-depth evangelism in war-torn Dominican Republic.

Gordon McAllister, son of Dr. Jack McAllister, director of World Literature Crusade, Los Angeles, Calif. Gordon serves as executive assistant in his father's organization and has visited more than thirty countries and ministered in many outstanding churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Schanely, representatives of Wycliffe Bible Translators, who have served in Mexico, Peru, Bolivia and New Guinea. Mr. Schanely is interested in doing translation work into the native language.

Dr. Clarence W. Jones, co-founder of the Voice of the Andes, Radio Station HCJB, Quito, Ecuador, S.A. He presently serves as honorary chairman of the Board of The World Radio Missionary Fellowship, Inc.

Mr. Richard R. Hamilton, eastern area representative, World Vision International, who has recently returned to the United States after a trip to the Orient including Japan, Korea, Vietnam, Indonesia, and India.

The week-long missionary emphasis will begin with World Wide Communion being observed in the individual churches at the Sunday morning worship services. For Sunday School and church services the Rev. M. D. Penner, Jr. will appear in Youngsville, and Pittsfield and the Rev. Jack Marshall in Chandlers Valley.

Sunday evening members of all cooperating churches will gather at the Kidder Memorial Church, Jamestown, for a combined service at 7:30 p. m. featuring an address by Dr. Calvin H. Reber, Jr. The Rev. Jack Marshall shall preside as song leader, the Rev. Charles E. Koch, Jr. will provide the piano accompaniment, and the Rev. Richard R. Hamilton will lead in devotions.

During the week services will be held at 7:30 p. m. at convenient locations. The congregations of Youngsville, Pittsfield and Chandlers Valley churches will meet together in the following schedule:

Monday, at Chandlers Valley to hear the Rev. John D. Westley and the Rev. Charles E. Koch, Jr.

Tuesday, at Chandlers Valley to hear Mr. Gordon McAllister and the Rev. Richard Hamilton.

Wednesday, at Pittsfield in a program featuring the Rev. M. D. Penner, Jr. and the Rev. Jack Marshall.

Thursday, at Youngsville to hear Mr. Gordon McAllister and the Rev. Jack Marshall.

Friday, at Youngsville to hear Mr. Leon Schanely and the Rev. John D. Westley.

Saturday a Men for Missions Banquet will be held at 6:30 p. m. at the Kidder Memorial

Home Street Club Begins Meetings

The Home Street Parents' Club held its first meeting of the Autumn season on Monday evening, September 25. The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was the opening ceremony, and Mrs. Thomas Brown led the group in devotions.

The Ways and Means Committee announced that they will sell sweat shirts to raise funds during the school year. It was also brought to the attention of those present that, in resuming, programs that are school related is the interest of the majority of parents. They will be included as a part of the regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. John G. Donaldson was appointed as the new program chairman. Room visitation followed the meeting. Refreshments were in the charge of Mrs. Joseph Lopez.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠ East's opening three club bid created a stymie for North and South during the auction. However, they eventually reached a contract of six spades.

South was reluctant to make a take-out double for fear that partner might leave it in with some holding that would produce a game or even a slam—yet would not yield sufficient compensation for a penalty. He, therefore, made a cue bid of four clubs which is unconventionally forcing to game.

West was aware that his opponents could make practically any contract they desired so he continued the preempt by bidding five clubs. North was not to be shut out, however, and he competed with a call of five diamonds. When South re-retreated to a safer haven by bidding five spades, North reasoned that his eight high card points including the spade fit plus the ace of hearts was a great deal more than his partner was expecting from him. He accordingly proceeded to bid a slam in spades.

West opened the deuce of clubs which declarer ruffed. Trumps were drawn in three rounds, and South was a little surprised to observe that East rather than West was longer in spades. Inasmuch as the preemptive bidder was marked with at least six and more probably seven clubs, his possession of three trumps meant that he did not have many red cards.

As a preliminary measure South cashed the ace king of diamonds. East followed both times. He was now marked with a maximum of one or two hearts. As a safety play, declarer led the king of hearts from his hand, and the queen appeared from East. A small heart was continued, and when West followed with the six, the nine was played from dummy. When it held the trick, South cashed the ace and then conceded one heart trick to his opponents, for his only loser on the deal.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1967.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—A lack of proper procedure will make for lack of controlling interest. Also bear in mind that the window-dressing is not a measure of the basic value. Remember old obligations, promises.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—This is no time to permit fine opportunities to slip through your hands. Financial and artistic gains indicated. Be your engaging, tactful, smiling self.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Your Mercury promises a new chance for advancement. Keep going in known areas and keep extra-curricular activities in their proper place, never superseding everyday duties, essentials.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Avoid worry, indecision. You can make progress if you strike forth staunchly, knowingly. If you hesitate when the occasion warrants action, little reward will be yours.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—It may be advisable to slacken your gait in order to detect error of method or details overlooked. Avoid foolhardy ventures. Plan with confidence.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—End of the week jam-up? Back off, take a better look, get a better perspective. A slight change here or there could reactivate the forward movement.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Mixed influences. Don't head into complications; steer a clear course. Speak softly but with decision. You are qualified to give more than an ordinary assist.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Poise and perseverance are two requirements now. Choose the most appropriate goal and plan for its achievement carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Focus ambitions on an attainable plateau. Don't strive for the unreasonable. Arbitration scheduled? Engage in it quietly, purposefully. If not well counselled, new ventures could prove a problem.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Review the inner forces that drive you. Are you sure you are following the right course for YOU? Day's aspects ask for better-than-just-good effort and thought.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Business matters, difficult tasks, long-range planning favored now. But have patience, be vigilant and precise. Watch budget, protect assets.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Mixed influences. Don't be caught in a tide of vacillation, be resolute, firm. Avoid tension, squabbles, fretting. Move on to well-earned gains. Maintain contact with helpful persons.

YOU BORN TODAY: "First thoughts" are often your best judgments. Foresightfulness helps you to progress rapidly, and your healthy curiosity and imagination are outstanding. Don't waste time or mental gyrations on trivialities, however. Systematize efforts and you won't become bogged down with non-essentials. You have a keen sense of justice, but you may tend to achieve its ends so forcefully in some areas that you could defeat your good purposes. You appreciate music, drama, all things artistic. Birthdate of: Robert (Lord) Clive, founder, Empire of Brit. India; Brigitte Bardot, cinema actress; Gene Autry, "Singing Cowboy" of Hollywood fame.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE MACHINE BREAKS DOWN

A regular checkup is helpful in detecting advance signs of ailments that are fairly common in older people. It may be possible to lighten the load on the heart by lowering the blood pressure and to correct kidney and bladder ailments via antiseptics or surgery.

Reducing the cholesterol level and weight requires a diet. But we are not immortal, and the time comes when irreversible changes occur and additional adjustments are needed.

For example, little can be done to reduce deterioration from narrowing or hardening of the arteries that supply blood to the brain. Mental changes may follow the first stroke but are more likely to take place with subsequent attacks. Repeated "little strokes" may do the same. Some victims have a terrifying dizzy spell, followed by changes in memory, ability, temperament, or facial expression.

Deterioration of this type is not always hopeless. Surgery helps those in whom a single blood vessel outside the cranium is blocked. The surgeon bypasses the obstruction or removes the blockage. Anti-coagulants may stop the progress of the disease. Drugs that improve circulation to the brain, such as papaverine, mefrazol, or amnophyllin, help occasionally. In some instances, there is improvement in memory and mental outlook. The older person becomes neater, less irritable, and more active and cooperative.

In the past, oldsters with senile dementia were kept at home, protected from injury and foul play. Today many are institutionalized. Early rehabilitation may hasten recovery, especially when the individual also is incapacitated by weakened or paralyzed extremities. Mental deterioration is more rapid when the older person is convinced that his case is hopeless or that he has nothing to live for.

When brain damage is extensive and irreparable, however, the older person may slip into a vegetative existence from which there is no return.

TOMORROW: Mumps Vaccine.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

ALCOHOLIC INTAKE IN DIABETIC

H.P. writes: I am a diabetic and my physician says I can have one ounce of Scotch or brandy or six ounces of beer twice a week. Will this harm me in any way?

REPLY

No, but I am sure your physician is not insisting that you drink liquor. He merely means that this is the amount of alcohol allowed in the diet.

SINUSES AND ARTHRITIS

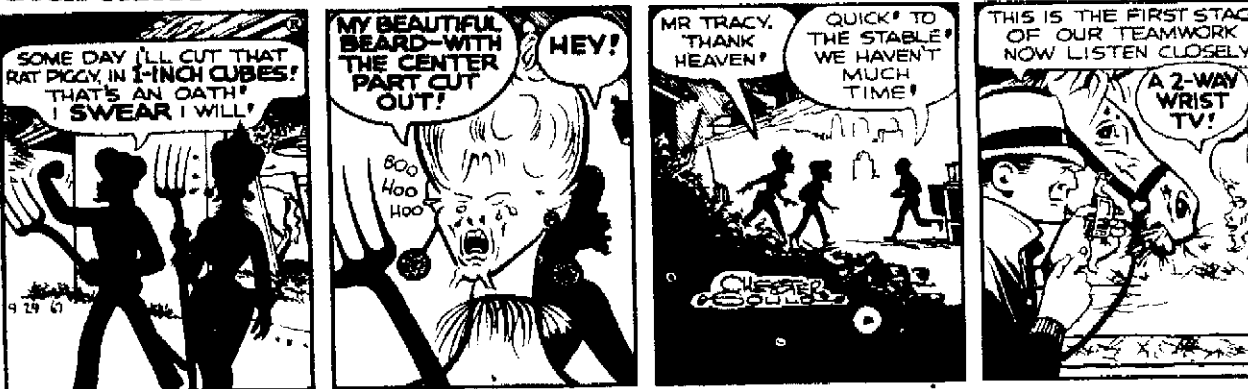

C.H. writes: Do you think sinus drainage could cause or aggravate arthritis?

REPLY

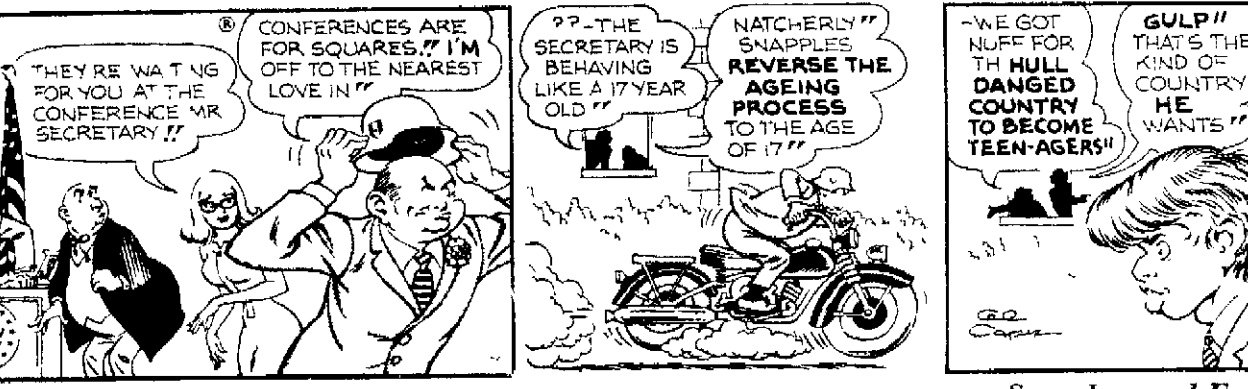

Sinus disease could, but not the drainage. Any illness may affect arthritis by adding to the stress with which the body must cope. This is in contrast to the idea that focal infections are directly responsible for arthritis.

Friday's TV Highlights

WILD WILD WEST at 7:00 p.m. on Chs. 4, 35, and 10. A 5 Michael Dunn returning for the first time in the new season in a dual role, that of the noble lawman and the villainous, Dr. Loveless, and as Loveless' uncle, Dr. Liebke.

OFF TO SEE THE WIZARD at 7:30 p.m. on Ch. 7 brings Part I of Mark Twain's classic, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." This is the story of the adventures of a boy and a runaway slave on the Mississippi River. Edna Hodges stars as Huck, and Jim, the slave, is Archie Moore, former world light-heavyweight champion, in his acting debut. Also in the cast are Tony Randall, Patty McCormack, Neville Brand, Mickey Shaughnessy, Jud. Cornova, Andy Devine and Blaise Keaton.

STAR TREK at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 7 offers "The Change Log." Following a series of space attacks, the Enterprise "beams aboard" its adversary, a cylinder containing a voice that claims it was sent from Earth in the year 2002 to destroy all that is not perfect.

HONDO at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 7 guest stars Robert Reed and Nancy Malone in "Hondo and the Superstition Massacre." Hondo meets Frank Davis the man he swore to kill because he led the raid to snuff out the Hondo wildcat band.

CBS FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE at 9 p.m. on Chs. 4, 35 and 10 screens "North by Northwest" starring Cary Grant, Eva Marie Saint and James Mason. The suspense drama depicts a case of mistaken identity involving international espionage.

GUNS OF WILL SONNETT at 9:30 p.m. on Ch. 7 presents "The Natural Way," with guest star Wendell Corey. Will and Jeff Sonnett are captured to prevent a town from being harassed by a rancher and his trail hands.

JUDD FOR THE DEFEAT at 10 p.m. on Ch. 7 guest stars Dan Travanty in "A Civil Case of Murder," in which Charles Judd finds that a simple custody case might involve murder.

OUR ENDANGERED WILD LIFE is an NBC special at 10 p.m. on Chs. 4, 35 and 10.

Sanitary Water Board Streamlines Procedure

HARRISBURG — Improvements in the procedure for issuing waste discharge permits and conducting public hearings have been adopted by the State Sanitary Water Board. The changes, to be made effective soon, will:

— Allow the Health Department to issue waste discharge permits and take other board actions subject to review and rescission by the Board, thus freeing the Board from routine permit processing.

— Allow the board to appoint hearing examiners to take testimony at board hearings, complete transcripts of which will be referred to the board for decision and adjudication.

Dr. Thomas W. Georges Jr., State Secretary of Health and chairman of the board, said that the changes will allow the board more time to consider and decide important policy questions involved in the state's water pollution control program.

"This streamlining of the board's procedure will enable the board's eight members to devote more time to their primary function of formulating policy and regulations, and hearing problem cases," the Secretary added.

With respect to the issuance of permits, the Secretary explained that the Department of Health, through its ad-interim powers, will assume the major share of the board's permit-issuing function. This includes permits for the treatment of sewage and industrial and mine drainage wastes.

The Secretary said that all of these actions will be taken in accordance with Board regulations and policies and will be reported to the board at its regular meetings. The actions will then become effective unless rescinded by the board.

Applications for permits are now reviewed and investigated by the Health Department staff but approved or disapproved individually by the board at its regular meetings or by mail vote.

Applications for bituminous strip mine drainage permits will continue to be investigated and reviewed by the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries, which will submit its recommendations to the Health Department for appropriate ad-interim action.

Former Air Force Men Have Chance to Retrain

Former members of any branch of the U.S. Armed Forces now have an opportunity to retrain into a new U.S. Air Force career field if they qualify.

"More than 35 Air Force technical training schools have been opened up to qualified veterans of military service," said Sergeant Ronaldo, Oil City, Air Force Recruiter.

The Air Force representative pointed out that a man holding a needed Air Force specialty or specialty from one of the other branches of service that will convert to those on the needed list will be enlisted in that specialty.

If the former serviceman's skill is not on the needed list he can enlist to attend any one of the training schools for which he meets the qualifications.

Sgt. Ronaldo said the qualifications vary for each of the schools. He added that whether the prior serviceman enlists for a needed specialty or for retraining, in most cases he will retain the rank he held at the time of discharge.

Sgt. Ronaldo also pointed out that veterans enlisting with a needed specialty will be able to choose their first base before enlisting.

More information on the Air Force prior service program may be obtained by contacting Sgt. Ronaldo at 226 Seneca st., IOOF Bldg. Room 232, Oil City, Pa. or calling 646-3531 or evenings after 5 p.m. 648-3332.

Barnes Area News

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hahn Sr. have received word that their grandson, Gregory Cowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Cowan of Colorado Springs, Colo., qualified in the national merit scholarship as semi-finalist at Palmer High School in Colorado Springs. The scholarship is being sponsored by the Ford Foundation.

The semi-finalists represent the most intellectually able high school seniors in the nation and are the highest scorers in their states on the national merit scholarship qualifying test given last February in 17,600 schools.

Mrs. Walter Hoyer was hostess to the Sheffield Garden Club last Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-four ladies answered roll call.

Mrs. J. C. Curtin and Mrs. Lenore Myers are visiting relatives in Shippensburg.

'68 Buick Skylark $2664.* Now we're talking your language.

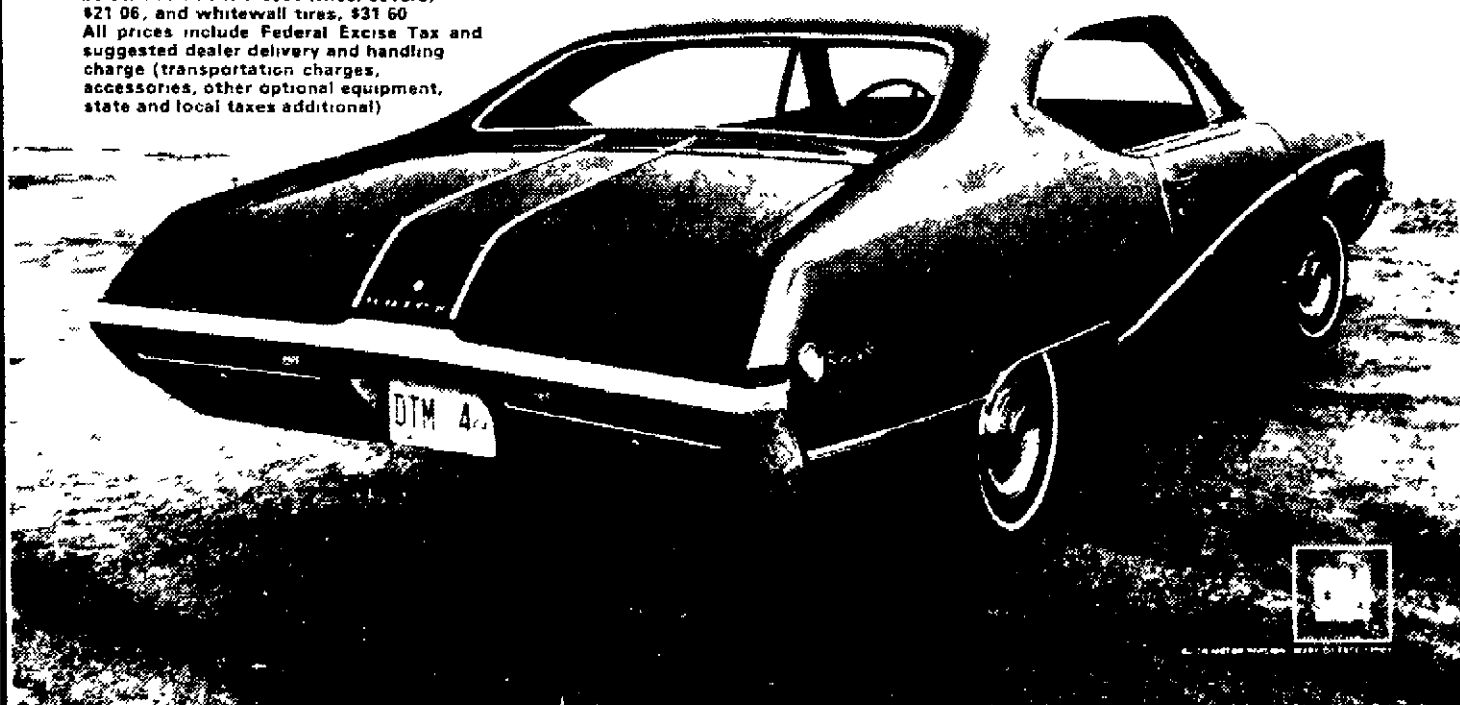

We also gave Skylark a new wheelbase. We shortened it by three inches. It parks easier. And you'll think you're driving a sports car.

The engine runs on regular gas. Now you can take it easy on the family budget and travel in style.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

We gave Skylark a brand new look. And we gave her a price tag you can afford. $2664: Is that talking your language?

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Skylark Sport Coupe. Model shown below has at extra cost wheel covers, $21.06, and whitewall tires, $21.60. All prices include Federal Excise Tax and suggested dealer delivery and handling charge (transportation charges, accessories, other optional equipment, state and local taxes additional)

The '68 Buicks are at your Buick-Opel dealer's now. He's ready to talk your language.

12 Cows due from October to February.
8-1st calf heifers, several due at sale time.
This is one of the top producing herds of Warren County. PHA records show August 41363 lbs. of milk, September 48000 lbs. of milk, last year's herd average 15,424 lbs. milk with 568 BF and 3.7% test. Several cows are milking in the 60-85 lb. bracket. Cows in this herd milked over 100 lbs. per day last year. The recently fresh ones have not reached their top production.
This dairy has good breeding background but papers have been neglected because of Mr. Gruber's one-man operation.
The dairy has a recent TB and Bangs test for interstate shipment. Charts will be written day of sale. Cows have been checked for pregnancy.
This is a good dairy ready to work for you.
For additional information catalogues will be furnished at ring side of tent.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Dexter entertained at "Open House," Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. William Gum Jr., who were married in the Methodist Chapel in Woodbridge, Va. on August 31.

Mrs. Gum is the former Judy Jewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jewell. Forty relatives and friends were present from Sheffield, Clarendon, Warren, Youngsville, Pittsburgh, Coraopolis, Rimersburg, Pa. and Woodbridge, Va.

Refreshments were served and the newly married couple were presented lovely gifts from those present.

PERSONALS

Weekend guests at the Dexter home were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jewell and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Gum Jr. of Woodbridge, Va., Mrs. Wilda Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Rankin of Rimersburg. Mrs. Ethel Mattison, Mrs. Richard Enos, Mrs. Harold Holcomb and Mrs. Maynard Dexter attended a Rebekah Past Grange meeting at the home of Mrs. Ruth Somers in Warren Monday evening.

The Wiltse Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. Harry Eckman at Klatone with six members and three guests present.

Mrs. Emma Lundmark presided at the business meeting and work was done on articles for the Sidewalk Sale to be held in Jamestown on Friday.

Anyone having articles for the sale should bring them to Mrs. Lundmark or Mrs. Howard McJunkin Jr. or to their table in front of the Geer-Dunn store by 9:00 a.m. on Friday. Those working there will be Mrs. Lundmark, Mrs. McJunkin, Mrs. Donald Lundmark, Mrs. Olaf Lundmark, Mrs. Conrad Venman and Mrs. Ernest Wiltse.

To conclude the hostess served refreshments. The October meeting will be held with Mrs. Conrad Venman, Oct. 25.

Lander
Notes

The Lander Birthday Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George Rapp with ten members present for the tureen dinner. Mrs. Roy E. Lindell was honor guest for the day. Secret sister gifts were presented to Mrs. Lindell, Mrs. Ernest Stanton, Mrs. Ruth Swanson and Mrs. Otis White.

A social afternoon was spent. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Millard Hill on November 7.

The Foster Cemetery Society met last week Thursday at the home of Mrs. Vincent Mills with fourteen members present.

Mrs. Mabel Loree presided at the business meeting and planting of tulip bulbs in the flower beds in the cemetery was discussed.

Mrs. Mills read letters from and told about the "foster" child they are supporting in South America. She also favored with playing her new organ.

The next meeting place will be announced. To conclude the hostess served refreshments.

IT'S SUPERFISHERMAN!

CHICAGO (AP) — Loren P. Woods, Field Museum's curator of fishes, could be described as a super fisherman.

He's fished most of the world's great seas and oceans to obtain rare species. His catches number in the 1,000s. His fishing waters range from the Galapagos to tiny lakes in the U.S.

His catches range from the giant Galapagos devil fish to the tiniest Great Lakes inhabitant.
